The Year of The Building Boon

295800

TRU-COAT NORTH LIMA

Building was no new thing to Eastern Kentucky University. More than a decade of feverish construction was the heritage of the University as it entered 1971-72. This tradition of a developing campus was continued at no less a pace during the year, exposing all to the increasingly familiar sights of hardhats, structural steel, building forms, and frenzied workman. But, it was in this year that Eastern surpassed her previous history of expansion with the realization of years of dreams and plans.

There was a marked difference in the building of this and past years. For, within an area one-hundred yards in length, on the site of an old football field, three buildings were completed that, for the first time since the first couple strolled through the ravine, changed the center of campus life. Three buildings, which fused with the experiences of the year, emerged with unsurpassed significance. The Eastern building boom had become the building boon.

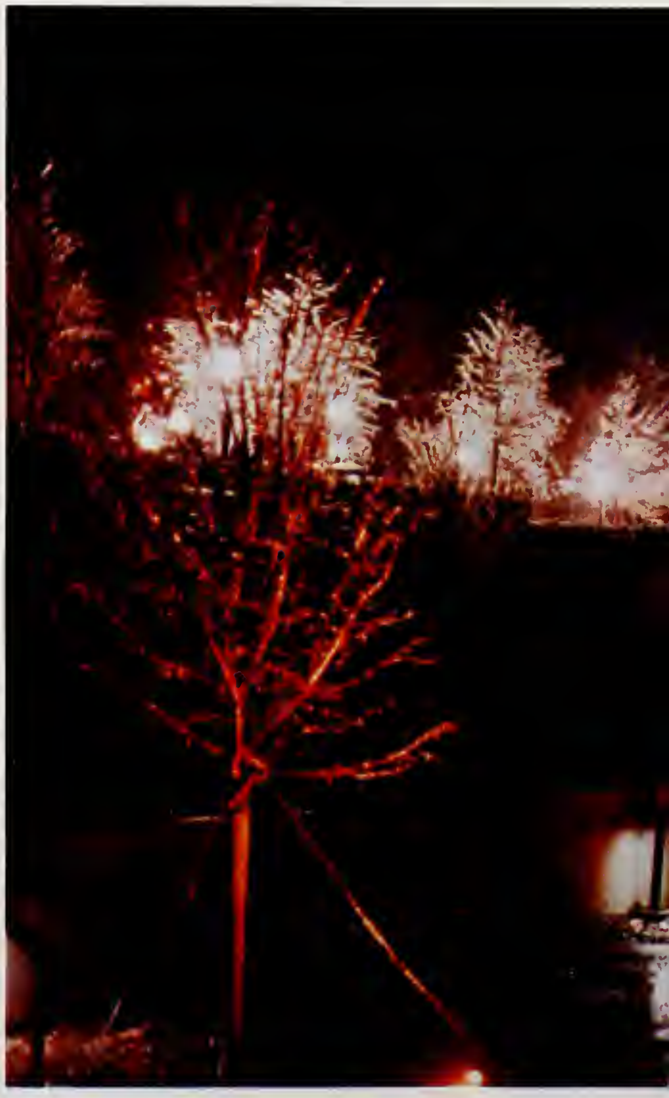
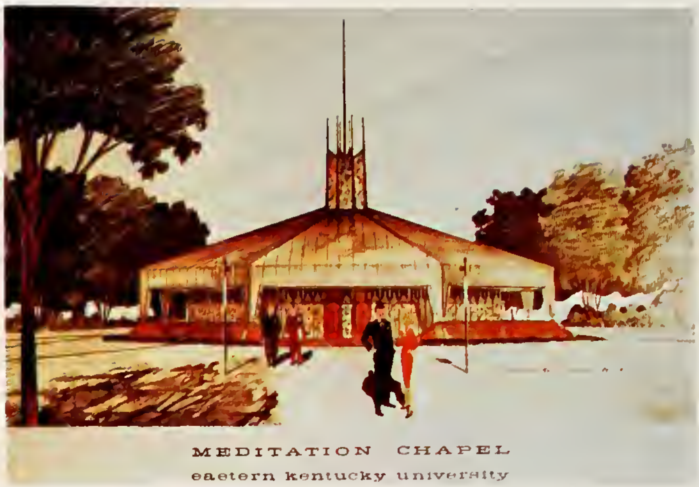
As the year unfolded, the campus population witnessed the fulfillment, dedication and utilization of a triad of structures aimed at serving distinct, yet interrelated, needs of the University community. Within the confines of a new plaza stretched academic, social, recreational and spiritual facilities that within a few short months became landmarks rivaling nearby Daniel Boone and the Student Union Tower.



LLIAM L WALLACE BUILDINGS

The fruition of a half decade of dedication and vision, the Chapel of Meditation became a reality. A gift to Eastern from those who love her, it was jewel-like, vibrant with the physical warmth of wood carvings and glowing stained glass panels. An aura of color imparted a manifestation of the high purpose symbolized by the Chapel, the hub of plaza involvement.



MEDITATION CHAPEL

Seemingly distinct and apart to itself, yet an integral part of the whole, soared the monolithic Memorial Bell Tower. Standing in honor of Eastern students who have given their lives in their country's service, the Tower rang in a new spirit at the beginning of 1972, as it began to forever call daily to mind those of fortitude and clear purpose.

January brought the new year and the opening of the Powell Building, a new University Center harboring dining, recreational and other long-anticipated additions to University life. From the first day, these new corridors resounded with the intensity of hundreds — student voices at study, leisure and living.

Within the maze of the University Center nestled a new, unchallenged gathering place, the grill. Paneled in wood weathered on campus farmyards, this facility became an introductory ground to people never known although seen each day. Small worlds and circles of friends often touched and joined, offering a glimpse of some unknown, previously unnamed individual.

After months of covetous eyeing, seeing the buildings grow, iron railings ruling the area, and cement grabbing footsteps, the reward proved to be unbounded. New academic, recreational and spiritual offerings neatly tucked in a hundred yards of long-contemplated dreams. What for? People. People of a variety of experience and background, bound by the common bond that is Eastern, now sat upon their cement thrones after watching others building for them and for those yet to come.

Record Numbers Enroll For Fall Semester

The 1971-72 academic year began not unlike previous years, but with one major difference. It was the biggest. A record 10,171 students registered for on-campus classes, and virtually all of them — or so it seemed — arrived on campus the same weekend in August with most of their worldly possessions.

If the registration of underclassmen seemed less hectic, even in the face of record enrollment, it was for good reason. Some 1,182 new freshmen, about half of the total, had registered during special preregistration and orientation earlier in the summer. Begun as a pilot project in 1970, the pre-registration was in its first year of full-scale operation.

Registration itself was routine with its line-standing, ID photographs, etc., a necessary prelude to a new year.

Chi Omega Triumphs In Powder Puff

During registration week, Kappa Delta Tau again played in the annual powder puff football game. For '71, their challenge went to Chi Omega. Sigma Nu took over the sponsorship of the event. Freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors all gathered to watch the girls battle it out under the hot sun. As the afternoon wore on and the girls exhausted their energy supplies, Chi Omega emerged victorious, with a final score of 42-0.

Vibrant Fall Color Captured in Activity

Activities filled the weekends in the fall. Some were remembered and others, less publicized, drifted to the depths of memory banks. The movement and color that always characterize the fall were captured in the activity of the speeding two-wheelers of the DU Bike Race.

Book Store Offers Life's Little Necessities

Every year, about the same time, everybody heads for one place with only one thing in mind. The place is the bookstore, and the thought is "How much will they cost this semester?" The bookstore, though it may not have seemed so at the end of each semester, was one of the students' best friends on campus. It offered required texts, class materials, and many essential items such as incense, candles, and most importantly, TV Guides.

After all the hunting and searching, students must all wait those never-ending lines.

For those without access to a refrigerator, the window ledge offers a convenient "cooler".

Food In Dorms Illegal, Inevitable

Nearly everybody did it. A few got caught. Those few had to pay the penalty, but for those sly enough, opportunity presented itself for real "home-cooked" meals. When the funds ran low, a can of soup was a cheaper way to a "balanced" diet. Many rooms had suspicious-looking towels draped over oddly shaped boxes. What could they have been? . . . A refrigerator?

Hectic Mornings Start Class Days

Early morning classes meant even earlier showers, which meant waking up before you really wanted to. After the shower, the pleasure awaited of standing in line for a sink. Girls had the advantage of performing certain chores the night before, but they, too, rose early to comb out their hair and apply their make-up.

Study Habits Vary With Students

After each day of classes, students had to start studying for the next. And, study habits varied with almost every student. Some seemingly took time out only to eat and sleep. Others didn't study at all; some didn't have to, some didn't want to.

Exhausted Students Seek Relaxation

After a hectic day of classes, students unwound in various ways. While many spent their leisure time in the new University Center shooting pool, bowling, or playing a quick game of football, others found ways to relax in the privacy of their dormitory room. Some slept, some watched television, and others just sat around and talked to friends.

Student Affairs Organize Activities

A new program of coordinated dormitory activities highlighted residence hall living. Directed by Miss Mary Glass and Mr. Ben Nankivell, activities were initiated that students participated in throughout the year. Included were coffee houses, folk sings, arts and crafts classes, movies, and several discussion groups.

Not only did activities take place in the dorms, but also trips were taken to go ice skating, horseback riding and to the Barn Dinner Theater.

Many students participated in the arts and crafts classes held in McGregor Hall's date lounge.

Brockton . . . 'A Place To Call Home'

For many of Eastern's married students, Brockton was a place to call "home". Life was simple at Brockton. Although there wasn't much time for social life, due to work or study, Brockton residents occasionally had get-togethers with their neighbors for dinner or to play cards.

After The Hassle, Classes Begin

After the lines and waiting of registration and book buying and getting settled in their living quarters, students turned to the routine of classwork.

Eastern students went to classes daily, each pursuing his own schedule of morning or afternoon classes, on a Monday-Wednesday, or Tuesday-Thursday class pattern which he attempted to manipulate for the maximum of free time.

Library Provides Student Necessities

The library provided almost unlimited facilities and resources which aided students in acquiring their education. Students could obtain the assistance they needed by using the learning resource center, dial acess, instructional media, and the law library. Those interested in looking at artifacts from the history of the country found pleasure by browsing through the museum.

Bikes Sweep Campus

With the fad of bike-riding spreading over the nation, Eastern students were not left behind. From the start of the year bikes were a familiar sight on the EKU campus. Students living on- and off-campus found them to be a cheap and quick means of transportation, regardless of the weather.

Game Room Holds Suitcasing Students

For years, Eastern had been labeled a suitcase college because of the number of students going home on weekends. Their traditional excuse had been that there was nothing to do on campus. The opening of the game room in Powell University Center killed this excuse. The game room had 12 bowling lanes, and in an alcove were tables for billiards, bumper pool, and foosball. In a quiet room there are tables where students can play cards.

Because of the crowded conditions, Christy Vanderpool and Jerry Phillips wait for a pool table.

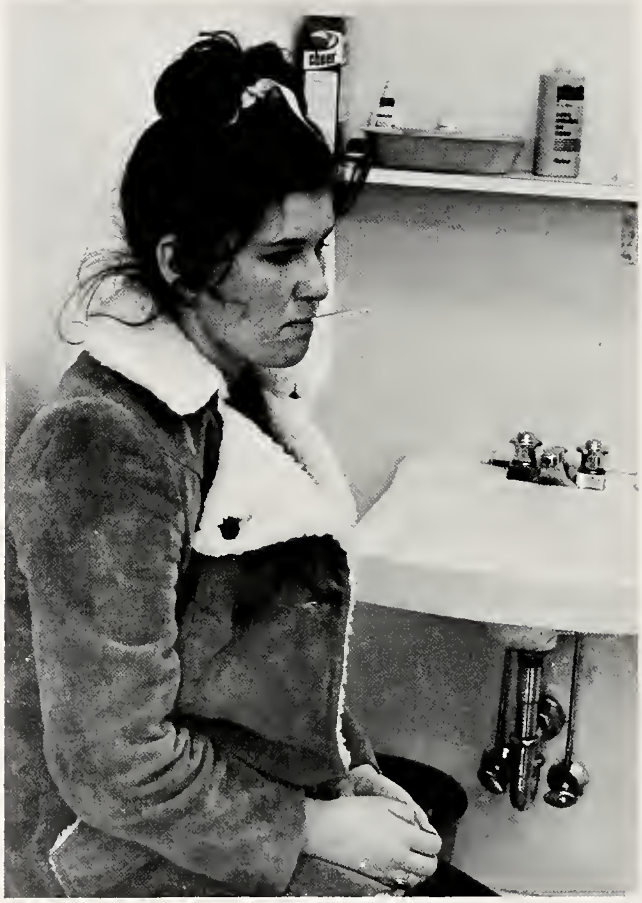
Line standing was a major part of University life, as students gathered to wait their turns for many necessities, including food.

The new Powell Building featured more serving lines than the old Student Union, but the larger crowds attracted by the newness, and more attractive surroundings, of the University Center offset the ability to serve more students faster.

. . . But, Even Lines Have Faces



Fickle Climate Adds To Infirmary Load

Kentucky's predictably unpredictable climate and the winter's influenza epidemic resulted in booming business for the Student Health Service. Students who rushed the season during some unseasonable warm spells, or who experienced illnesses ranging from colds to homesickness sought the services of the medical staff which kept a 24-hour vigil.

Information Programs Center on Drug Abuse

The national issue of drug abuse was the object of concerted information programs at Eastern. Project HEAD, dormitory interest and discussion groups and informational skits were all part of a self-education program operated by students.

Drug use was not a wide-spread campus problem, but Eastern did have an apparent small percentage of users, some of whom were arrested during the year. The largest drug find of the year was a cache of drugs confiscated by local authorities in a farmhouse occupied by students.

Visiting Artists Display Techniques

Art had different meanings to different people. To some, art was unusual, yet beautiful sculptures. To others, it was the results of a skillful brush stroke on canvas. And to still others, it was a masterful etching.

Culture was made evident on campus by the visitation of several artists. These artists included painters, sculptors, and photographers.

Center Board Sponsors Lectures, Fine Arts

The University Center Board's Lecture Series was off to a flying start with Alvin Toffler's appearance in October. Toffler's book FUTURE SHOCK had been among the best-sellers for a long time and was on the required reading list for many classes. Toffler was followed in November by Julian Bond. Bond spoke forcefully concerning racial relations and also stressed the college student's responsibility to use the vote wisely. The series ended with the appearance of Ralph Nader in April. Nader's reputation as champion of the consumer drew a large crowd to hear what he had to say.

The Center Board also presented a Fine Arts Series. The Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers performed before a delighted audience in Brock Auditorium. The next highlight of the series was the performance of John Chappell as Mark Twain. Another popular offering was "The World of Rod McKuen" in January.

Chicago Just Comes And Goes

"Too long awaited, too highly anticipated and so overrated," were just a few of the EKU student comments after the Chicago Concert in November. Long-requested of the University Center Board, the group performed before a sell-out crowd of students that had filled dormitories with their recorded music for weeks. But, the night of the concert Chicago didn't meet expectations and just went through the motions until the closing minutes of the performance. It seemed that the crowd was just beginning to get caught up in the performance when they left the stage.

Severinson and Carpenters Entertain With Music

Early arrival and a day spent on campus helped build a rapport between Doc Severinson and EKU students that carried over into his performance. A well-received segment of his act was the dancing New Generation, which included Severinson's daughter. In short, the Johnny Carson Show bandleader made the 1971 Homecoming Concert a big hit.

Later in the fall, the Carpenters made perhaps the biggest hit of all, performing their hits "Close to You," "We've Only Just Begun," and "Superstar," plus other popular music.

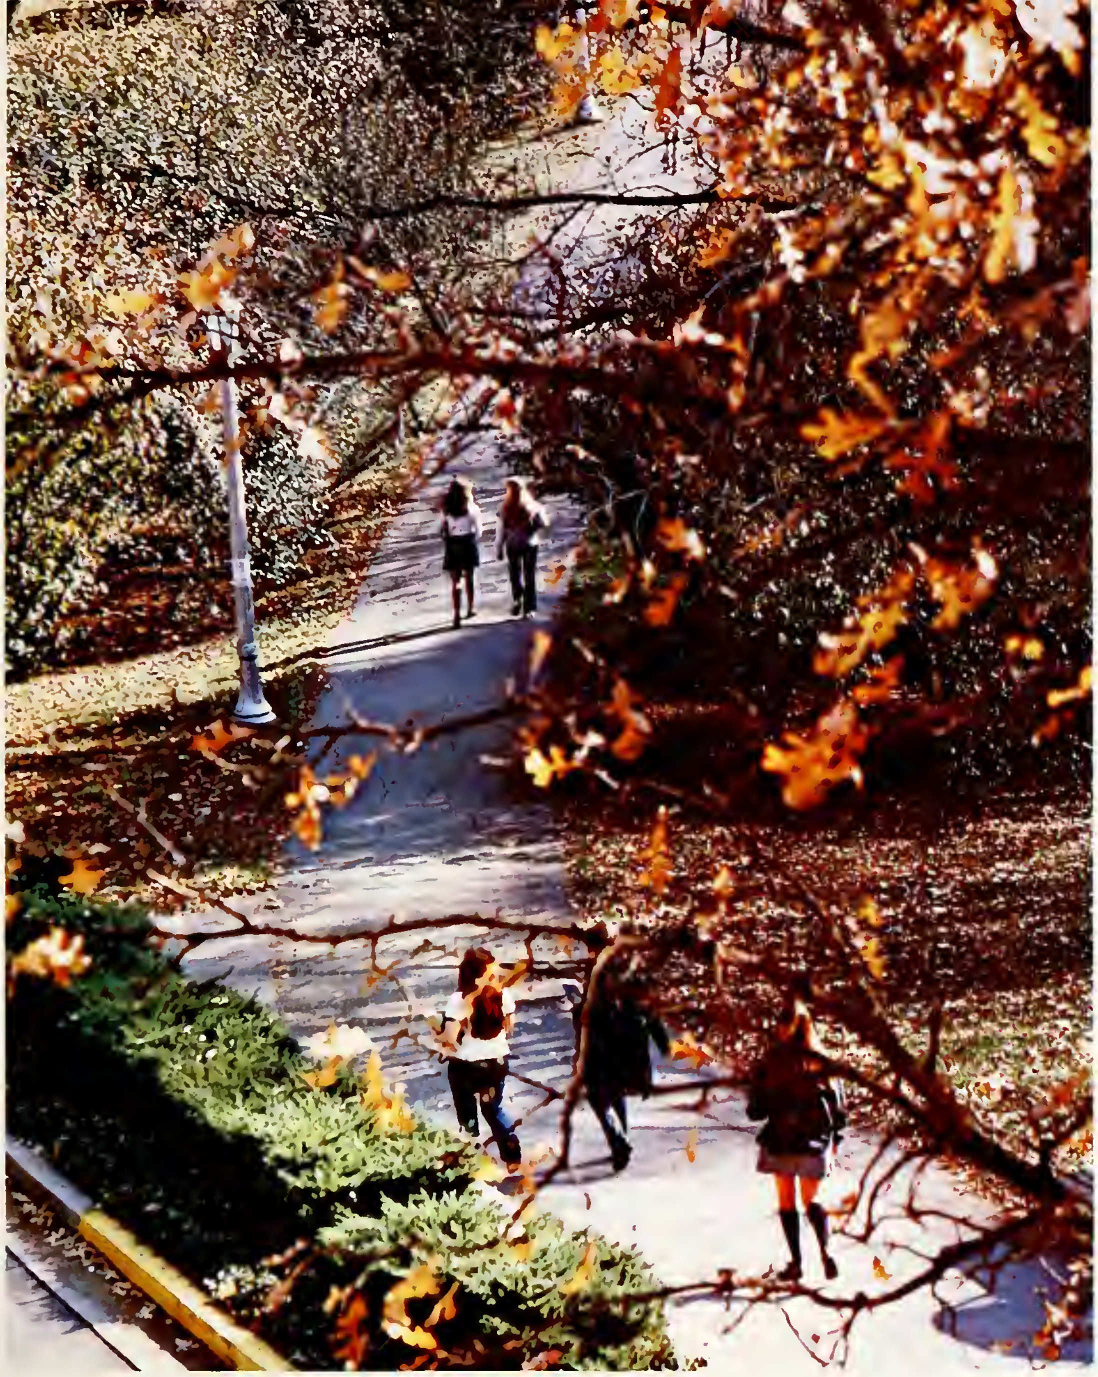
Autumn brought a golden burst of outdoor activity to the sun-kissed Eastern Campus which experienced a welcomed reprieve from normality. As in years past, students and faculty looked for excuses to walk through the colorful ravine, radiant with fall colors. Winter's delay kept gloves and scarves packed away and gave students time to enjoy the refreshing weather of the fall semester with hardly a snowflake.



Above: Under an umbrella of autumn leaves, students wend their ways to class across picturesque campus walks. Left: Despite the lingering temperate weather, fallen leaves still served as a harbinger of more bitter weather.

Look What's New!
. . . Hot Pants! . . .

They're Everywhere!

As times and new people demanded change and the campus revolutionized its appearance, so did fashion dictate a new look. No matter where you looked, this fall, spring, and surprisingly, winter, there was a girl in those short "short-shorts," hot pants. Coeds wiggled to sit properly, squirmed in front of crowds and constantly "yanked" to keep them where they belonged. But, yet each day of the campus revue of legs featured still another pair of hot pants.

BOG County Fair Features Variety

Work, fun and sport themed the day at Beta Omicron Gamma's fall BOG County Fair. Students and townspeople alike wandered through the maze booths and tests of skill for just pennies. Not all the events were exhausting as some all-time favorites, such as the checkers tournament, were enjoyed. Nonetheless, the competitors couldn't help feeling the pressure with each participant having plenty of group representation to cheer him on.

Autumn Days, Events Draw Students Together

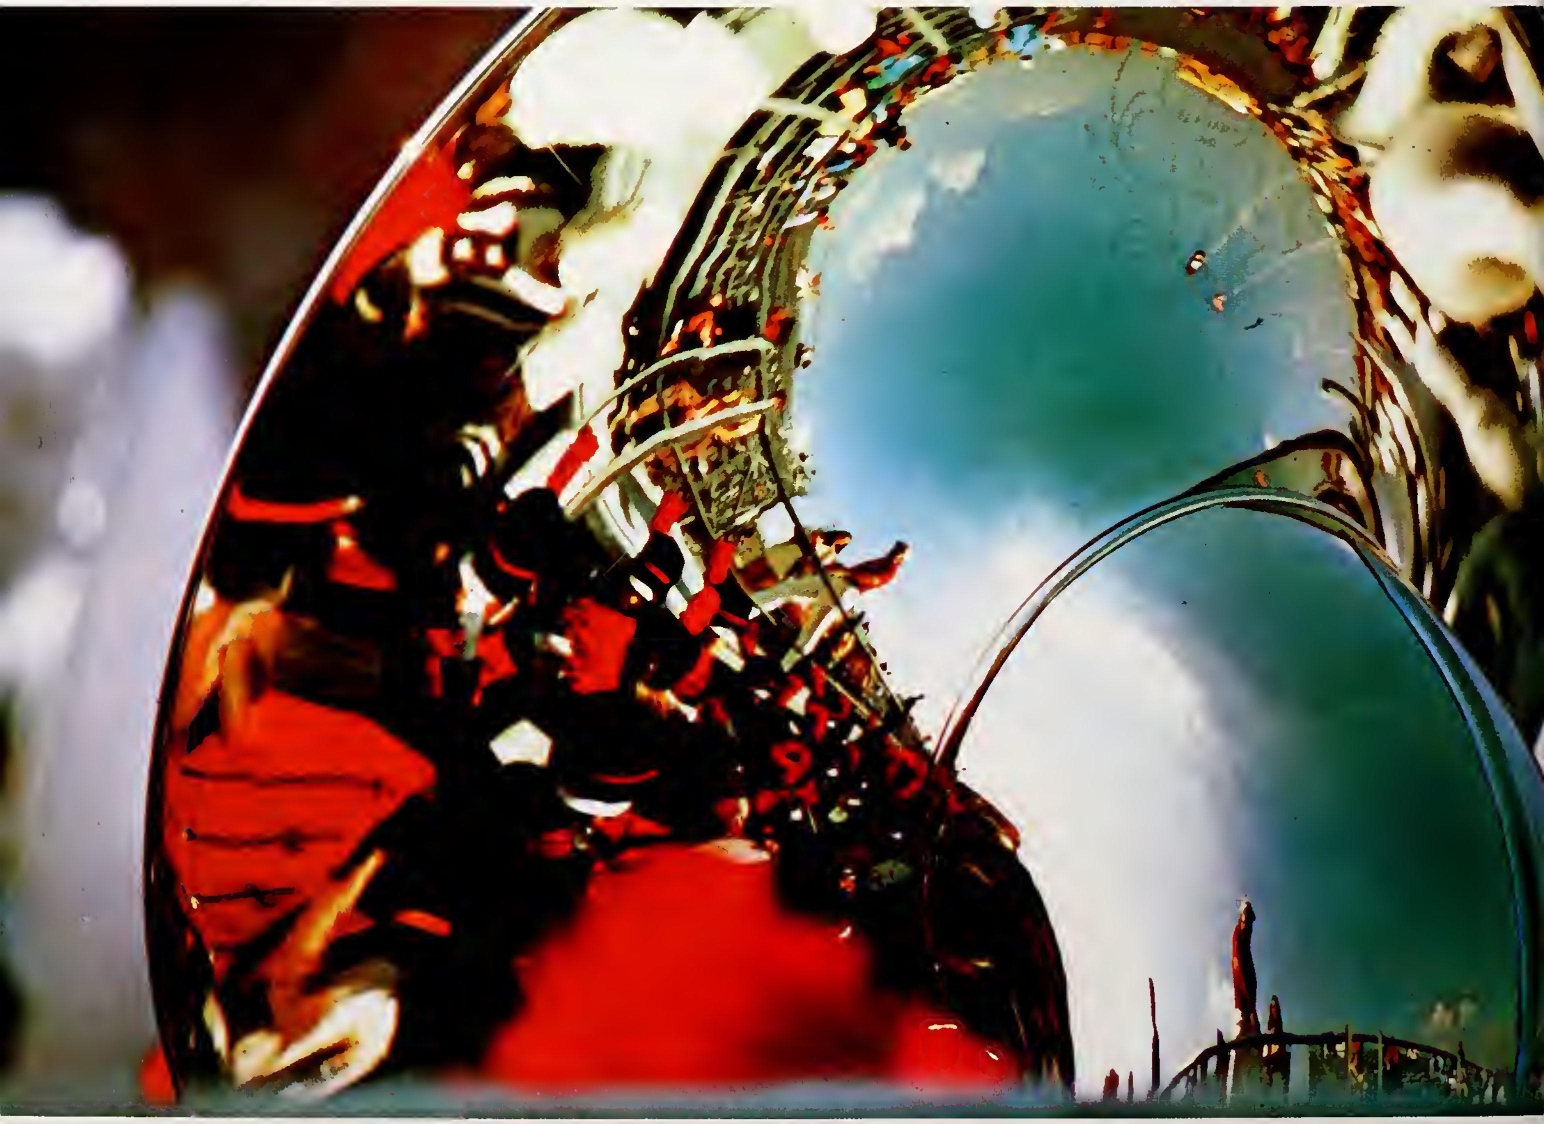
The near-perfect weather of a prolonged autumn and the colorful events of the fall semester helped to pull individuals into groups, both large and small. Encouraged by the warm, sunny days that stretched into December, students turned every campus by-way into a meeting place.

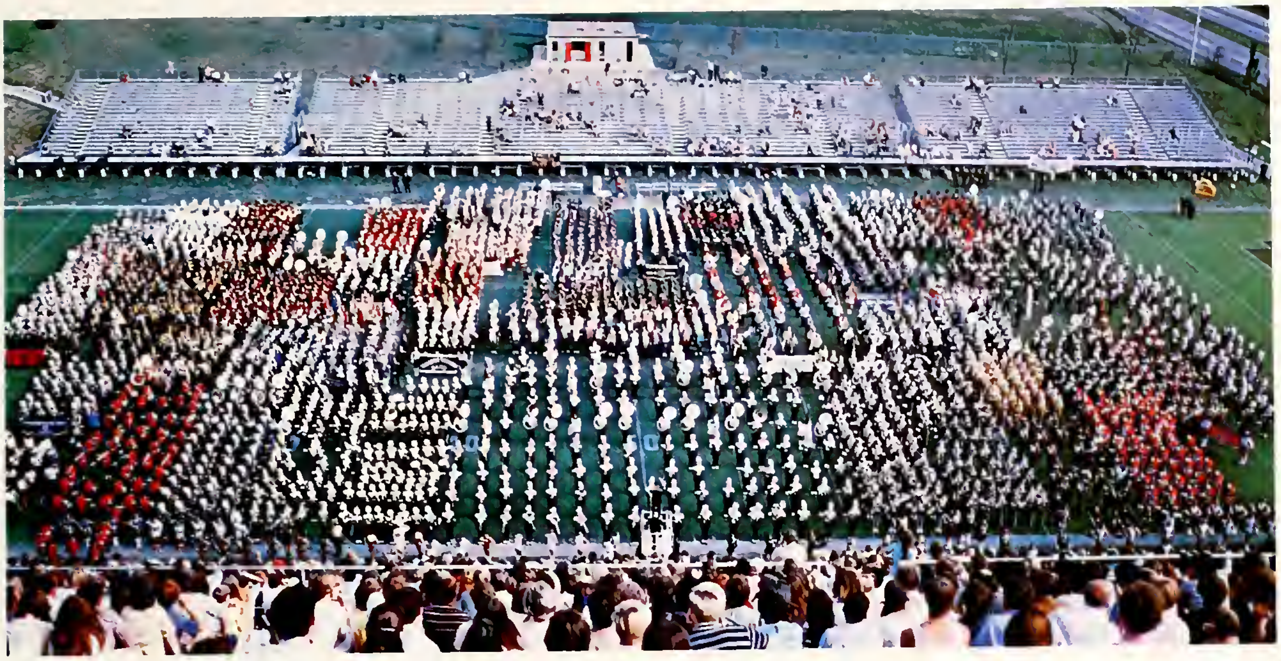
Football's excitement generated the largest throngs, as sometimes more than 20,000 fans came to cheer the Colonels, and release the pounding of building tensions by joining in cries of encouragement, victory celebrations or the pangs of defeat.

Rain falls on a Hanger Field Homecoming crowd as the EKU fans hope for an elusive victory over Western.

A Symphony of Color and Sound—Band Day

The annual observance of Band Day attracted some five thousand high school musicians to EKU for the traditional morning parade through Richmond, a frenzied rehearsal, and the day's highlight — a stirring halftime performance by the massed bands.





C.NAPIER

Homecoming Drudgery Preludes Spectacular

Literally millions of napkins, stuffed by thousands of numbed fingers, filled the holes in chicken-wire as the 1971 Homecoming parade took shape in a Richmond tobacco warehouse. Companionship and anticipation helped make the task of float-construction almost a pleasure, and the annual "Is it worth it?" question was answered by the crowds who lined sidewalks and perched on walls to enjoy the efforts of the behind-the-scene workers.

Crowning, Parade Head Pre-Game Festivities

Homecoming at Eastern was, as always, more than a football game. A colorful, "Name of the Game" parade proclaimed — among other things — that "Western's Got Cooties." Old grads congregated at the Mary Frances Richards Alumni House, and President Martin once again carried out one of his more pleasant responsibilities. And, Queen Marie Covington, like many before her, momentarily forgot her personal moment of glory as the Colonels battled with Western.

Spirit Survives Rain, Defeat

Day-long rains and the heart-breaking loss to Western in an important Ohio Valley Conference game couldn't break the Homecoming spirit of Eastern's fans. The Colonels lone touchdown sent cheerleaders and spectators alike into ecstacy but, despite the 16-7 loss, EKU's black Greek organizations still strutted in their annual, post-game Step-In.

Claudia Follows Claudia As 1972 Miss Eastern

Another Claudia reigns as Miss Eastern! Claudia Cruse wears the crown presented her by Claudia Taylor, the 1971 Miss Eastern, after she (the 1972 Claudia) emerged as the victor at the Miss Eastern Pageant held in early February. With the title comes the distinction of being the University's representative in both the Mountain Laurel Festival and the Miss Kentucky Scholarship Pageant.

A sophomore agriculture major from Louisville, Miss Cruse was selected from 13 contestants. As her talent, she presented a modern dance number, entitled, "Fancy Pants."

Claudia is a member of Alpha Delta Pi, the modern dance theatre, a Little Sigma, and a Colonel cheerleader.

Her royal court consisted of Miss Lea Boggio, first runner-up; Miss Brenda Clark, second runner-up; Miss Frances Adams, third runner-up; and Miss Debbie Delduca, fourth runner-up. Once again the pageant was jointly sponsored by Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils.

Lauretta Harris Named Miss Black Richmond

The night of December 11, beauty and talent filled Edwards' Auditorium as the 1971 Miss Black Richmond Pageant was held. Twenty-one contestants competed for the honor, and when the judging was complete, Miss Lauretta Harris was named Miss Black Richmond. Miss Harris, a senior textile and design major from Louisville, was active in organizations such as the Home Economics Club, Black Student Union, Textile Club, and was a Kappa Alpha Psi Jewel.

First runner-up was Jamesetta Rozier, and Toni Smith was named second runner-up. Both Miss Rozier and Miss Smith are freshmen from Louisville.

Snow Hinders Travel

When the dreaded snows finally hit, the campus was briefly blanketed by inches of the flakes. Batteries went dead, car windows seemed to disappear and class attendance often dwindled. EKU students were thankful that the fierce cold and snow lasted for barely two weeks. Cold weather hung on but was tolerable.

Left: Snow and ice hampered the sidewalk travelers' journeys to class, and many found class attendance too much trouble to venture out. Below: Eastern's drivers are frequently restricted to "footin' it" when the winter snows freeze engines.

Ceremonies Begin Christmas Season

The "Hanging of the Greens", held in Walnut Hall, officially opened the Christmas season on campus again this year. Members of the music and speech departments aided in the continuance of the forty-two-year-old tradition. The speaker of the ceremony was the Rev. Shelly Akers of Paris.

The annual performance of Handel's traditional Christmas oratorio "Messiah" was held for the 40th consecutive year on Eastern's campus. Dean Wilder, a professor of voice at Boston University and the New England Conservatory of Music, was the guest soloist and was backed by the 175-members of the Christmas Oratorio Chorus, consisting of Eastern students and faculty and participants from the Richmond area. Dr. David A. Wehr was the director of the program.

Christmas Season Campus Adorns

In addition to the traditional "Messiah" and Hanging of the Greens, the Christmas season was supplemented with gala decorations, as students "trimmed the campus." Christmas ornamentation took many forms. A tree in front of the Keen Johnson Student Union Building served the University Community, while dormitory residents decorated lobbies, windows and, finally, their individual rooms.

January Brings Spring Registration

Second semester registration was just one bit less hectic than fall registration. This was due, of course, to the fact that pre-registration lowered the number of students who had to pass through the lines. But, somehow, to the participants it didn't seem any easier. The same problems of closed classes, long lines, and IBM cards were present in full force. However, as always, every student made it through and was ready to begin the classes that had taken so much work to acquire.

The Rain Comes In Any Season

Rain.It seemed to be a daily hang-up with the weatherman, and when it did rain, a rainbow of colors spotted the campus like newly bloomed flowers. Students had different feelings about the rain. Some hated it and would not go out in it. Some loved it and loved what it did to beautify the campus greenery. Sometimes a few could be seen running and playing in it.

A sure sign of spring is the popular and colorful track shoe.

The first warming days signaling the end of winter turn the fancies of young men (and women).

Signs Begin to Appear Promising Warmer Days

Kleenex boxes and the infirmary got a workout this spring as students refused to admit it wasn't summer yet! Donning their bathing suits, coeds hit the sundeck too soon catching the chilling spring breezes. It may have been a bit brisk, but who needed to wear a jacket to the grill?

Spring was coming. The signs were around. Trees, grass and vines turned a never-to-be-forgotten shade of green. A rainbow of colors walked the campus trails adding to the joyous feeling in the air. Once again groups gathered outdoors to converse. And, of course, the magic of spring drew together boy and girl.

Martin Hall Opens Casino

One of the more spectacular dorm activities of the year was Las Vegas Night. Held in Martin Hall cafeteria, the games permitted students to legally "win a pile", of play money, that is. Students participating in Las Vegas Night played a variety of games including Black Jack, Wheel of Fortune, Roulette, and Craps.

Profs Move Classrooms Outdoors to Breathe

How many times did students ask if going to class was too much bother on those beautiful spring days? The hassle of getting ready for the day's academic life was sometimes a struggle. The call of the sundecks was too much for sun worshipers to turn down. The tennis courts held a special magnetic field for the sports minded.

Those that made it to the high-noon brain drainers found it a necessity to wear the coolest clothing possible. Survival came to many when classes met outside in hopes of catching the refreshing spring breeze.

Art students find new ideas with the refreshing atmosphere of an outdoors workroom.

Construction workers are a familiar sight on Eastern's campus. Here work progresses on the Jane F. Campbell Building, a new fine arts facility.

Campus Construction Program Continues

Construction was present on campus in various phases of completion. The William A. Wallace Building was opened at the beginning of the fall semester although it was several weeks before the building was entirely finished. Students became accustomed to attending classes in rooms smelling of paint, or to a workman walking in halfway through a class. The beginning of spring semester was marked by the opening of the University Center. The Chapel of Meditation was finished as the year closed. The breaking of ground for the Jane F. Campbell Building shifted construction to a new area of the campus. Projected opening date for this Fine Arts Building has been set for the fall of 1973.

A honeycomb of pipes await installation as construction continues.

Lazy April Days Draw Students to Ravine

Occasionally, the ravine was more than a place of solitude for study or casual conversation. It was a popular setting where students gathered for all-campus meetings to discuss such national topics as ecology and peace, as well as the never-tiring campus question of dorm hours. Sometimes the Greek fraction of the University met to initiate a week of "Song Swap" and "Greek Week" activity. Area clothing merchants sponsored fashion reviews with Eastern students as the models and political parties campaigned with the challenge many times coming from a hired band drawing listeners to sit and stay awhile.

While the greening ravine collects thirsty students interested in ecology and sun-bathing, campus trash cans bulge with empty cups.

Spring Unfolds Activity

As the ice and snow finally gave way to breezy afternoons under the sun, Eastern came to life. Most activity centered around the main events such as the Kappa Alpha Old South Olympics and the Sigma Chi Derby. Both offered friendly competition not only to Greeks, but also to interested independents. Baseball, track and field, tennis, and golf occupied EKU's sports-minded.

The University Center Board obtained a wide variety of entertainment favorites, and spring restlessness caused a majority to pack the auditorium. Besides the mingling around the new University Center, students still sought the old familiar relaxation of the ravine between classes.

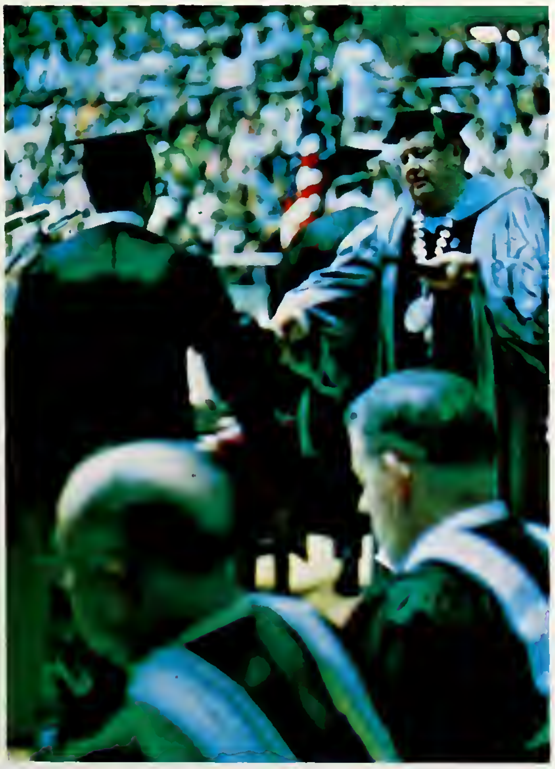
Degree candidates sit pondering the past four years as speakers, speakers and still one more speaker takes the podium before the endless list of names begins to be called.

As Friendships Part, Lives Take Direction

More than 2,000 gathered in May, 1972 to receive one of the numerous degrees offered EKU students. Many went on to graduate school pursuing their educations. Some had killed time with small circles of friends, while others had made the best through a driving purpose towards a goal. Still another faction had whirled in the depths of campus politics attempting to establish unity through communication. There were those that achieved their objective — be it just a degree, a high GP, or a four-year course in life, experience and participation; a few had actually attained the combination of all three. No matter what, each individual left his mark and took his fragment of Eastern along to take a place "out there".



President Robert R. Martin congratulates one of many receiving degrees as those packed in the bleachers wait to see their friends and relatives cross the stage.

Governor Ford Thrusts Education In Spotlight

Kentucky's new Democratic governor, Wendell H. Ford, thrust higher education into the spotlight early in his administration which began in December. Aiming for maintenance of existing programs on Kentucky campuses, the Governor's executive budget made appropriations for continuation of college programs with modest increases for inflationary costs.

The Governor endorsed legislation in the 1972 General Assembly to revamp the Council on Public Higher Education, give the vote to student members on state boards of regents, and change the status of some institutions within the state.

To help offset the loss of state revenue by removing sales tax from food, Governor Ford proposed, in his budget, tuition increases by the state higher educational institutions, except the University of Louisville.

During the campaign, Mr. Ford and his running-mate, Lieutenant Governor Julian Carroll, both made visits to the Eastern campus.

Governor Wendell H. Ford succeeded Louie B. Nunn in the Kentucky Statehouse in December.

Regents Make Policy, Approve Bond Sales

The Board of Regents, the policy making body of the University, experienced an eventful year which saw the completion of six major buildings and numerous other campus improvements, and broke ground for a new fine arts building.

The Board also approved Eastern's biennial budget which was submitted to the Council on Public Higher Education.

Buildings completed and dedicated during the year included the new university center, the Powell Building, the William L. Wallace Building, and the Donaldson Service Complex.

The Board members, appointed to four-year terms by the Governor, are successful men who have made significant contributions in their professions. Student and faculty representatives, elected by their peers, serve as non-voting members.

President Martin Directs National Association

President Robert R. Martin's 12th year as chief executive of Eastern Kentucy University was one in which his educational leadership extended to both national and international levels.

During the summer, President and Mrs. Martin spent three months in Europe where he studied England's so-called "red brick" colleges, institutions which are similiar in scope and purpose to Kentucky's regional universities.

In November, Dr. Martin assumed the presidency of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, an organization with some 286 member institutions. On taking the helm of the association, Dr. Martin said that the most immediate task of the association concerns itself with "the resolution of the financial crisis facing higher education today".

Representing the association, Dr. Martin communicated its members' position on the higher education bill introduced in Congress to the sponsor of the legislation. He expressed his dismay that no hard, statistical facts were available upon which to base an evaluation of the legislation and urged Congress to remedy the situation. Dr. Martin reiterated earlier statements that institutional aid, student aid, and innovative funding must be integral components of any education bill.

On the state level, Dr. Martin joined with the presidents of the other three regional universities — Western, Murray and Morehead — in taking the interests of the universities and their students before the Council on Public Higher Education, and, in turn, to the 1972 Kentucky General Assembly.

Locally, President Martin maintained the academic and physical development of the University and established committees to study campus governance, and to prepare for the centennial observance and the South-Association of Colleges and Schools self-study, both events scheduled for the 1973-74 academic year.

He continued the push for further implementation and expansion of student services and activities, which were enhanced by the January opening of the Powell Building, the new University Center.

University Center Honors Dr. Powell

Eleven years of service by Vice President for Administration, Dr. J. C. Powell, were recognized with the dedication of the Powell Building, the new University Center.

In his administrative position, Dr. Powell exercised authority in the fiscal affairs of the University, including direction and supervision of the Data Processing Center and the campus Safety and Security operation. He also acted as recording secretary at meetings of the Board of Regents.

The University's fiscal affairs were overseen by Dr. Powell. One of his major assignments was the preparation of the 1972-74 biennial budget request which was submitted to the Council on Public Higher Education. He also has responsibility for preparation of the annual internal budget of the University.

Fall Semester Brings Largest Enrollment

The academic year opened with an all-time high enrollment of 10,171 students, and the administration of scholastic programs for this record student body fell under the direction of Dr. Thomas F. Stovall, Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Available to the enrollment were 61 undergraduate programs, ranging from the traditional specializations in the arts to the professional programs and areas such as law enforcement.

New facilities were added to the academic program this year. The William L. Wallace Building added classroom and office space for several departments, and included a special education center for exceptional children. "Dial Access" was made available as a study aid in the library. Ground was broken for another facility, the Jane F. Campbell Building — a fine arts structure.

Graduate program development expanded to include master of arts in eight areas, master of science in 11, including new programs in mathematics and recreation.

Qualitative changes took place within the faculty. More than 40 percent of the teaching staff held the doctorate and an additional 21 percent had three years or more of graduate study.

Vice President Thomas F. Stovall administers the complex academic programs through close and continuous coordination between his office and the college deans and department chairmen.

Mr. Leonard C. Taylor, Registrar, makes a last minute check to insure the correct order of the diplomas at graduation.

Dr. Arthur E. Curtis, assistant professor of social sciences, speaks at a meeting of the faculty senate, a body which approves program recommendations that have come up through departmental and college curriculum committees.

New Center Opens Era In Student Life

A new era in student life opened this year with the completion of the new University Center. There were also several new programs for students, developed under the direction of Dr. Thomas D. Myers, Vice President for Student Affairs.

The Office of Student Affairs, through the University Center Board, brought name entertainment such as the Carpenters, Chicago, and Smokey Robinson, and lecturers such as Ralph Nader and Alvin Toffler to the campus.

A more extensive drive was made for more activities in the residence halls. There were three staff members involved in planned activities such as horseback riding and inpromptu coffeehouses in the dorm recreation rooms.

Admissions counselors were added to the staff to interview incoming students and help them with their particular problems concerning housing, finances, and medical papers.

Federal Grants Aid EKU Programs

Dr. John D. Rowlett, Vice President for Research and Development, worked closely with the administration and faculty in assisting the university to receive federal support for a variety of programs.

Dr. Rowlett served as the contact person between Eastern, agencies of the federal government, and other organizations.

More than 40 separate grants were received during the 1971 calendar year. Among these were: a nursing education project, funded by the Health Services and Mental Health Administration, to recruit and prepare twenty-five students from the Pike County area for service as registered nurses in the new Pikeville Hospital; a grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, U.S. Department of Justice, for the development of final plans for a regional Law Enforcement-Traffic Safety Center; a grant from the National Science Foundation ($165,000) to provide for a three-year project involving the departments of biology, chemistry, geology, and physics; a WHAS Crusade For Children Award of $14,000 to provide scholarships for students in Special Education.

The office's Division of Institutional Research, under the direction of Dr. R. Dean Acker, provided statistical information concerning the characteristics of the student body, grade distributions and other areas to help improve services and instruction. Standardized tests such as the Undergraduate and Graduate Record examinations were administered by the office.

New Service Center Opened

Two new major facilities to enhance the diverse services provided the expanding campus by the Office of Business Affairs were opened this year — The Donaldson Service Complex and the food service components of the new University Center.

Named for Vice President for Business Affairs, Mr. Neal Donaldson, the service complex consists of the L. O. Martin Building, the Frank Gentry Building, and the John Black Building. The complex was designed to serve the maintenance and storage needs of the campus.

Included in the University Center are a 1,000-seat cafeteria and an 800-seat grill, offering both increased services and longer hours.

An increase in student, faculty, and staff population broadened the scope of operation in virtually every area of business operations, including accounting, the bursar, buildings and grounds, housing, institutional services, personnel services, purchases and stores, the university store and the university farm.

Right: Mr. Neal Donaldson, Vice President for Business Affairs, is reponsible for a wide range of University financial and service functions. Below: The EKU Bursar, Mr. Bill Stapleton, checks over outstanding accounts due the University.

Public Affairs Ends Chapel Fund Drive

Directed by Mr. Donald R. Feltner, the Office of Public Affairs had a full year of special events, highlighted by the completion of the $375,000 Century Fund drive and dedication of the Chapel of Meditation.

The activities began early with Progress and Appreciation Day at which the University reflected over the accomplishments of the past decade and thanked the people of Madison County and the Commonwealth for their support.

Also, there were building dedications which included the William L. Wallace Building, the Donaldson Service Complex, and the Powell Building. Ground was broken for the Jane F. Campbell Building, a new fine arts facility.

Public Affairs also coordinated the "Restore Fort Boonesborough" Dinner in association with the Boonesborough State Park Association to generate interest in the restoration of the historic fort area.

Stepped-up activity was also reported by all the divisions within the office.

Programs Initiated To Aid Transition

Central University College, under the direction of Dr. Clyde J. Lewis, this year initiated several new programs designed to assist the students in making the transition from high school to college and from lower to upper division college study.

One major innovation was summer orientation and pre-registration, held in cooperation with various administrative and academic offices. Several hundred freshmen were fully pre-registered for classes, eliminating many of the problems and frustrations of the first few days on campus normally experienced by freshmen.

Some of the requirements in the CUC area underwent substantial changes, including the physical sciences and ROTC requirements. Under the direction of Dr. Wallace Dixon, General Studies Science Director, science courses were added that did not require a lab.

An optional ROTC program for both freshmen and sophomores replaced the mandatory system.

Industrial Ed and Tech Take Over Ault Building

The College of Applied Arts and Technology improved and expanded the scope of several of the departments under the direction of Dr. William Sexton, Dean of the college.

In the Department of Agriculture there were few changes, but an additional greenhouse brought the total to three for the horticulture majors.

Industrial Education and industrial technology expanded facilities with the renovation of the Ault Building for their use. This addition provided not only for woodworking, power, and machinery, but made possible a lab for wood technology.

The home economics department added two programs this fall: the interior decoration two-year degree program and the interior design four-year program. These two new offerings had substantial enrollments for their initial year.

The new baccalaureate degree in Nursing, the Bachelor of Science in Nursing (B.S.N.) was initiated for the fall semester with an enrollment of 82 students. Plans for an improvement and further development of the nursing program centered around the dream of a new building. For the second year of operation, the Pikeville Model Cities program continued to function successfully.

In Law Enforcement, the two-year program in Corrections was revised and a graduate area in Criminal Justice was added. Eastern's Law Enforcement program was the only curriculum of its type in the state of Kentucky. As a part of the curricula, nineteen different classes were taught throughout Kentucky as off-campus extension courses.

In the Traffic Safety field six course hours joined the graduate offerings for the teaching of Traffic Safety classes. Eastern had the headquarters for study and operation of the breathalizer in Kentucky.

State Operation Housed on Campus

The Kentucky Law Enforcement Council, directed by Mr. Robert Stone, was an independent agency of the state government using facilities and services of Eastern for its operations. The Council worked closely with the College of Applied Arts and Technology.

It was organized to provide training for all law enforcement officers in Kentucky. The Council began as the Kentucky's Peace Officers' Standards and Training Council which was supported by a federal grant of the Office of Law Enforcement Assistance, and the U.S. Department of Justice. It was formed in 1965 and was the first to use the Law Enforcement Act in the U.S.

Mr. Leslie M. Leach, director of the Traffic Safety Institute, an EKU Department, worked with the various aspects of traffic safety concerned with instruction, research, and public services.

The state government's breathalizer course was offered through the Traffic Safety Institute. This program provided training for state law enforcement officers in the correct operation and utilization of the machine.

Ag Interest Increases

Spearheaded by chairman Dr. William A. Householder, the agriculture department widened boundaries covering added fields of interest. Composed of three areas of specialization: agriculture mechanization, ornamental horticulture, and dairy science, the curriculum offered students a variety. Eastern agriculture students utilized the opportunities with the largest enrollment ever, totaling 186.

For the first time, the ornamental horticulture program offered a course in retailing floristry while a new greenhouse was approved that is yet in the architectural planning stages.

In February, the department's turfgrass program attended the International Turfgrass Conference at Cincinnati.

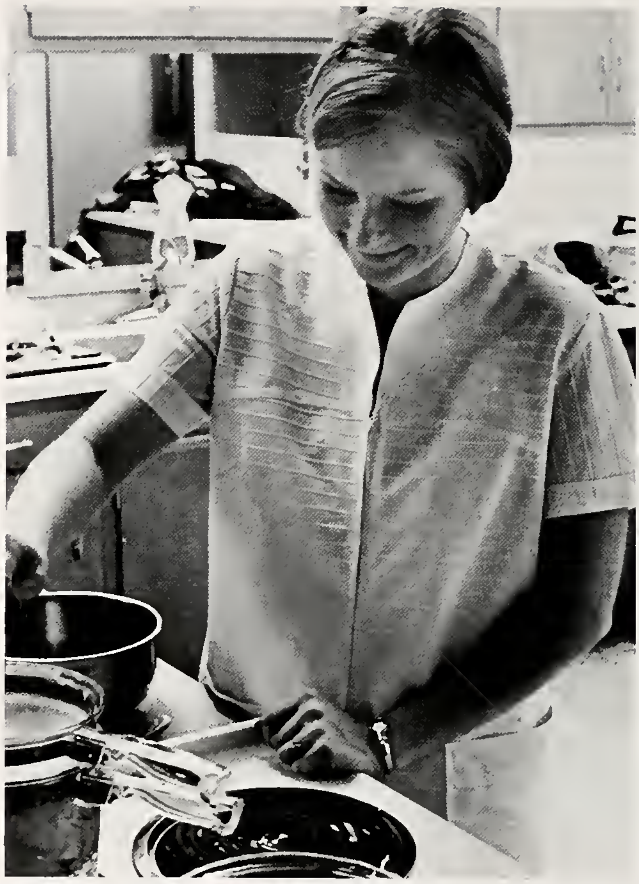
Home Ec Adds Interior Design Degree



Headed by Dr. Roberta B. Hill, the Department of Home Economics expanded and developed its courses lending to a variety of professional positions. The home economics department was divided in five various areas to clarify its specialty courses. These five areas included textiles and design, family life and child development, family economics and management, home economics education, and nutrition, foods, and food administration.

Added to the department this year were two programs, a two-year associative degree in interior decorating and a four-year degree in interior design. These courses had more than 40 majors for their first offering on campus.

In the foods area, courses were added enabling completion of registered dietician requirements. This enabled the students to apply for varied jobs in areas such as hospitals, large cafeterias, and food service companies.

Industrial Ed and Tech Update Courses

Designed to prepare students for eventual teaching of industrial orientated courses in secondary school was the objective of the Department of Industrial Education, directed by Dr. Clyde O. Craft.

The department updated its courses due to the large number of technical advances in recent years. Changes and additions were made to utilize more modern equipment as well as techniques.

A B.S. degree was available after completion of a special type of program for vocationally orientated students in a technical teacher curriculum.

Industrial Technology, chaired by Dr. Kenneth S. Hansson, correlated courses with industrial education to enable a wider and more varied course offerings.

The Department of Industrial Technology aimed its curriculum to preparing a person for entrance into the technical occupations. An associate degree was also available in this field.

Future Policemen Study Law Enforcement

As one of the larger and more rapidly growing areas on campus, the School of Law Enforcement increased its enrollment substantially. Directed by Mr. Robert W. Posey, the school prepared students for careers in police work. In order for full development of students, varied courses were offered in organizations, supervision, operation and techniques in law enforcement.

In the fall semester, a bachelor of science degree in corrections was offered for the first time. This B.S. was in correlation to the two-year associate degree program already offered.

On the graduate level, a two year Master of Science degree was available in criminal justice.

Also under the direction of Mr. Posey, the Regional Corrections Training Program continued successfully operating during the year serving Kentucky, Tennessee, and West Virginia.

Nursing Enrolls 283 In Five Programs

As chairman of the Nursing Department, Mrs. Charlotte Denny administered the five separate programs under her supervision. There were areas in nursing, the associate degree which had an enrollment of 283 and the Bachelor of Science in Nursing, which was a new program initiated in January. Besides these were medical records technologist, and medical assistings which were clinical or administrative in nature.

As before, the clinical nursing experience was mandatory. This experience was offered at Good Samaritan Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital, King's Daughters' Hospital, and the Kenwood Nursing Home, giving the students a variety of locations.

Special work projects in coordination with the Model Cities agency in Pikeville were available. These programs were aimed at bringing more nurses into the Pikeville area which has few qualified nurses.

Arts and Sciences Gain Programs, Support

In the College of Arts and Science, Dean Frederic Ogden ushered in new master's degrees and other improvements for the college. There were three new masters in different areas. MA's were offered in sociology and in education with an emphasis on sociology. Another M.A. program initiated this fall was in education with emphasis on general sciences to help improve teaching in junior high level courses. The music department added a master's program with emphasis in the performing arts.

Also, there were two new bachelor's degrees. In chemistry, the Bachelor of Arts was added requiring 30 hours of chemistry in addition to other courses. The Department of Art began the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

Under the auspices of the National Science Foundation, the College Science Improvement Program (COSIP) assisted the biology, chemistry, geology and physics departments. Financial appropriations were made to support and strengthen undergraduate and graduate science programs.

After a history of three years, the Master of Public Administration had been noted as a success. Faculty members went into government areas such as Frankfort to conduct classes.

In the humanities area, ground was broken for the new Jane Campbell Fine Arts Building. This multi-million dollar building will house all the fine arts upon its completion sometime in 1974. The University theatre will also be moved there. A large art gallery will also be a part of the building.

Dr. Frederic D. Ogden, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, discusses ideas with a parochial school publications adviser at a dinner for high school journalists.

Above: Spotting the sociology department was easy during registration as two faculty members put up the sign. Below: Dr. Murray Walker points out cultural areas of Northern Africa in an introductory anthropology course.

Anthropology, Sociology, Philosophy Add Courses

Dr. Richard F. Armstrong, chairman of the Department of Anthropology and Sociology developed the curricula more fully in order to provide a greater understanding of the social world and the modern aspects of social work.

Anthropology emphasized the uniqueness of races as the American Indian and other native cultures.

Sociology had its changes and expansions also. Field studies were opened to sociology and social work majors, which proved to be an invaluable experience for further studies or teaching experience.

In the Department of Philosophy, directed by Dr. R. Baine Harris, enrollment expanded. Being the smallest department on campus, great strides were made to enlarge the curricula. Some course additions included studies in Buddism and science provisions.

Art Department Begins Professional BA

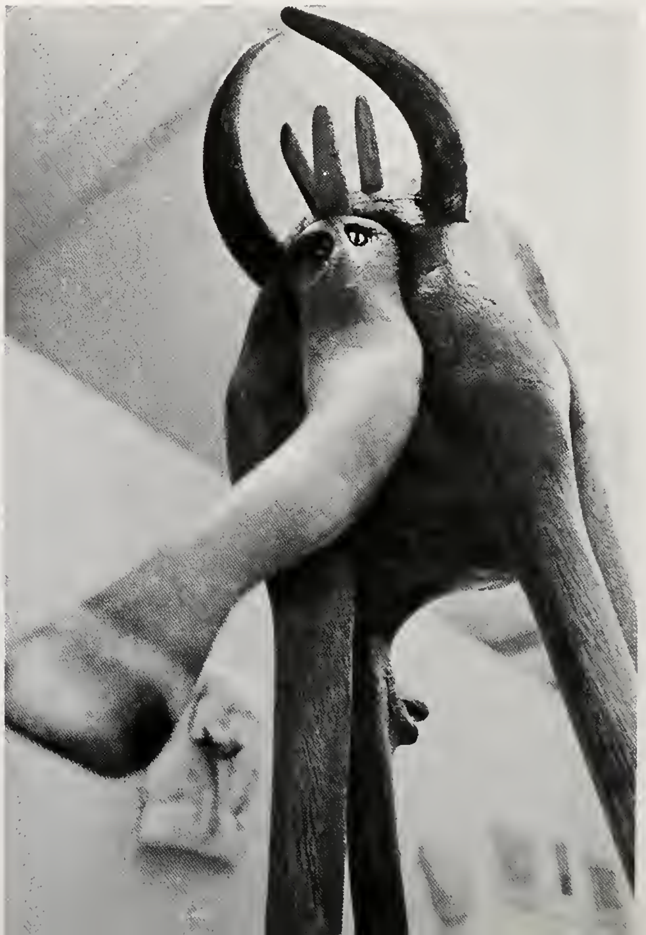
Dr. Dan N. Shindelbower, chairman of the art department, helped introduce in the fall semester, the Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree. This was the first professional degree in the department.

Along with the revised curriculum for the B.F.A. degree more "in-depth" courses were added. In painting and drawing, media courses were added. The design area began a program to help upgrade art techniques for teaching.

The art gallery, directed by Mr. Ron Isaacs, brought in many a varied show for the use and study of "real art" for the student. Some of the shows included prints of Jerry Uelsmann, a nationally famous photographer, works of a regionally known sculptor, Robert Lockhart of Louisville, and paintings from Illinois.



Mr. Charles Hitner, art instructor, describes the size of an effective margin of color in graphic art.

Music Department Sponsors Summer Camp

Directed by Dr. George E. Muns, the Department of Music grew to an all-time high enrollment exceeding past enrollments by twenty-eight percent. To accomodate this enrollment as well as to improve the department, many corrections and revisions were made.

At the graduate level, a Master's in Performance degree program will be offered for the first time during the summer session. A course added to the undergraduate level was Jazz Improvision which attracted a large enrollment the first time it was offered.

As the second largest state music program and one of the most highly recognized in the mid-south, the department offered specialized programs to other institutions as a professional service. The department also provided music programs for numerous functions throughout the year.

For the thirty-seventh consecutive year, the nationally recognized Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp will be held this summer on the Eastern campus.

Members of the faculty helped to break ground last fall for the Jane F. Campbell Building for fine arts. Twenty-two practice and several performance rooms are to be included in the new facility.

Forensic Program Revitalized

Expansion in all areas of the Drama and Speech department has been experienced over the last few years under the guidance of Dr. Richard L. Benson, chairman of the department.

From 1969, which marked the beginning of the broadcasting program, substantial growth within the department has occurred. At the campus radio and TV facilities, practical experience was gained by an increasing number of major students.

In the theatrical area, the Pearl Buchanan Theatre was renovated for temporary use until the completion of the Jane F. Campbell Building for fine arts which will house a complete theatre. Five plays were produced by the department's University Players, including "She Stoops To Conquer", "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown", and "The Glass Menagerie".

English Faculty Publish Articles

Without any major curriculum changes during the '71-'72 academic year the English department strove for quality and perfection of the present courses. These objectives were carried out under the direction of Dr. Kelly Thurioman, department chairman.

In December, a group of outside consultants, active secondary teachers employed by the state, came and studied the curriculum for possible modifications in the required English courses for teacher certification.

Some English students, during the first intersession, may travel to England and study for English literature credit.

In general, faculty members had an active year besides teaching with most occupied producing and publishing various papers and articles in journals.

Dr. Edwin A. Hess, chairman of the department of Biological Sciences received a grant of $43,000 this year from the College Science Improvement Program to reconstruct and develop new ideas for non-majors as well as biology majors.

The new ideas were incorporated into the undergraduate program with special emphasis on beginning basic biology courses: zoology, botany, principles of biology, histology, and plant and animal physiology. The department also encouraged open-end research projects chosen by the student. Included in the COSIP grant were appropriations for student tutors in certain areas.

The National Science Foundation also awarded a grant to the biological sciences for a summer program to upgrade and modernize high school teachers from throughout the United States.

ACS Accredits EKU Chemistry Department

The chemistry department, under the chairmanship of Dr. Harry M. Smiley, received national accreditation from the American Chemical Society.

The department also received an educational grant from the College Science Improvement Program (COSIP) which is affiliated with the National Science Foundation. This grant provided for curriculum studies and revisions. The initial plans were to modernize and overhaul the freshman introductory chemistry courses.

A new degree was offered by the department this fall, the Bachelor of Arts in Chemistry. This degree required 30 hours of chemistry along with other courses.

Along with the various improvements in the department, new equipment was received. A $25,000 Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectrometer (NMR) was bought for research and use in some organic chemistry classes. The Dow Chemical Company also donated a small computer for the NMR.

Geology Grows In Facilities and Students

The geology department, headed by Dr. Donald C. Haney, graduated its first Master of Science candidate this year. The graduate program, doubled since last year, had an enrollment of 14 students, including Master of Science as well as Master of Arts in Education with an emphasis in geology.

The geology department also received funds from the College Science Improvement Program. With these funds, more than $22,000 was used to buy equipment including a research petrograph microscope and an atomic absorption spectrum for the study of trace elements. An undergraduate research study program was in the planning stages for next year which will be funded by this program.

Again this year, the department coordinated a trip with the University of Kentucky's geology department to an area in the Appalachians. Guest speakers were also brought to the department, such as Dr. Tom Freeman of the University of Missouri and world famous paleontologist, Dr. Robert Shrock.

Math Begins M.S.; Physics Receives Grant

Offered for the first time in the mathematics department was the two-year degree program, Master of Science. There were enrolled approximately a dozen graduate students and some were graduate assistants. Continued successfully, was the Master of Arts degree in Education with emphasis on Math.

Under the direction of Dr. Bennie R. Lane, chairman of the math department, it occupied fourth floor of the Wallace Building, new location of the department.

Awarded $38,000 grant from the National Science Foundation along with the chemistry department, the physics department began a training program in science for teachers of the first primary grades during the summer session.

Directed by chairman Dr. Ted George, the physics department also received COSIP (College Science Improvement Program) grant. This grant was for developing research in the advanced physics labs and revamping the lab experiments in the elementary physics.

With funds received by this grant, three large pieces of equipment were bought. These included a solid state detector and a multichanneled analyzer for research in nuclear physics.

More Flexibility Put In Psych Courses

Dr. James A. Lee, chairman of the psychology department, was pleased with the continuing growth and development of both the graduate and undergraduate programs offered toward a psychology major. Beginning in the fall semester of 1972, at the undergraduate level there will be a combination of two semester laboratory sequence of a statistics course and an experimental lab course.

Some courses were changed to a lower level for the benefit of the undergraduate students. This also provides for an independent study available to students who are not necessarily seniors.

Courses at the graduate level were designed to enhance the flexibility of student scheduling and broaden their range of study. The new courses extended the field of experimentation and helped in developing special techniques concerning the Practium experiments in child therapy, group therapy, and behavior modification. The faculty and several students are now doing research on drug problems, personality, brain stimulation, and visual processes.

Language Expanded; OEO Funds Geography

Dr. Charles L. Nelson, chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages, continued to coordinate major programs in five language areas. With an unexpected enrollment increase in the department, several additional courses were added, 36 hours being added to the studies of French and Spanish alone.

Again this summer, the overseas extension study plan in which students will receive credit for a summer study in France, will be offered. A similar study was in the planning stages for Spanish students.

Directed by Dr. Joseph R. Schwendeman, the geography department continued to produce qualified teachers as well as professionals in geography.

A study was made of a four-county area of Eastern Kentucky. Funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity, this study produced a document which dealt with possible industrial development in the Kentucky River Foothills.

History Gives Award; Political Science Grows

The Kerney M. Adams Award was presented to an outstanding student for the first time in three years by the history department, under the chairmanship of Dr. George W. Robinson.

The history department had approximately 45 graduate students enrolled in the M.A. in History's three areas of study.

Four faculty members went to the Dukane History Conference at Pittsburgh and received information on the programs of other history departments.

The political science department had a new chairman, Dr. Malcolm Moore, and under his direction, three new courses were added.

An addition to the department was the Institute of Government. It was an administrative unit within the department, through which the Frankfort internship program was coordinated.

Business Initiates Data Processing Minor

For the first time, the College of Business offered a minor in electronic data processing. This minor was offered to all students, especially those in related fields. Many chemistry, math and law enforcement majors took advantage of this new minor, because of its application in their areas.

Headed by Dean Joseph H. Young, the College of Business trained students in the fundamentals of the business world. Courses such as accounting, economics, electronic data processing management, marketing, finance, business education, business law, general business, and secretarial science were taught to approximately 1,400 students.

The Department of Business Education and Office Administration, in cooperation with the College of Education, provided programs leading to certificates qualifying graduates to teach business subjects in high school. The College of Business, through the Graduate School, offered a program of graduate study leading to the Master of Business Administration degree. The Master of Arts in Education was offered through the cooperation of the Business Education and Office Administration, Graduate School, and the College of Education.

Accounting, Economics Plan Summer Workshops

With an enrollment of approximately 900 the Department of Accounting directed by Mr. Claude K. Smith continued to provide courses in principles of accounting for business majors.

A refresher course for graduated certified public accountants was planned for the summer along with a hospital accounting workshop in which the national health programs of Medicaid and Medicare would be studied.

The Department of Economics directed by Dr. Donald Shadoan aimed to increase the students understanding of the economic principles and to prepare for employment in the field of business and economics.

The department submitted a formal report by Dr. Robert R. Sharp to receive funds for a special summer course. This course would offer environmental education study with an emphasis on economics.

IN BUSINESS
An Introduction

Data Processing Expands Enrollment

For its sixth year on Eastern's campus, the data processing branch of the business administration department expanded its enrollment to include more than 70 majors. Directed by the chairman of the Department of Business Administration, Dr. Joseph H. Young, varied courses were offered such as the programming languages, COBOL, Fortran, and Easycoder.

Electronic data processing offered a minor for the first time to other majors in chemistry, math and law enforcement.

The University data processing equipment housed in the Coates Administration Building provided the central processing unit for the students.

Dr. Oberita Hager, instructor, attempts to keep her students up-to-date with any new changes in machines or principles in data processing by reviewing possible textbooks for the following semesters.

Departments Prepare Executives, Teachers

In the Department of Business Administration, a well-developed curriculum was directed by Dr. Joseph H. Young, dean of the College of Business. The varied major programs within the department included finance, management, marketing, business law and general business.

The B.S. degree received in Business Administration enabled majors to teach business at a secondary level. At the graduate level, a Master of Arts in Education with emphasis on business education was offered.

Preparation of qualified teachers and professional secretaries was the purpose of the Department of Business Education and Office Administration, which was under the chairmanship of Dr. Alfred L. Patrick.

In the office administration area, a Bachelor of Business Arts was offered for students who wanted a four-year secretarial program. Also offered was a two-year associate degree program in secretarial science for women students.

College Of Education Aims for Course Upgrading

Dr. Dixon A. Barr, dean of the College of Education, supervised 11 departments and the School of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics. There were few additions, but revision and improvement of all courses was the main objective for the '71-'72 academic year. In the graduate area however, there was a surge in degree offerings.

In the educational psychology and guidance department, graduate courses in advanced statistics and career development were added. A special arrangement was made with various nearby cities to have students act as practice counselors.

A major development in the education area were the modern facilities of the William L. Wallace Building for the special education and rehabilitation department. A new major and degree program was offered in secondary special education for the first time in the fall semester. A minor in special education for secondary education majors was begun. In the Wallace Building was the School of Hope founded by the Madison Council Association for Retarded Children and used cooperatively with the students of special education and the Madison County retarded children.

In the Department of School and Public Health, a new Master of Arts in Education was initiated for teaching health.

A Master of Science was begun in the Department of Recreation and Park Administration.

The Model Lab School under the direction of the College of Education had some program expansion. One program was aimed at logic development of elementary age students.

Extensive workshops in all areas of education were planned during the year, aimed at keeping teachers up to date with educational developments.

Varied Media Used In Library Science

In the Department of Library Science, Miss Juanita Phillips managed programs to prepare school librarians and provide a foundation for graduate study in the field of librianship.

With no large increase in enrollment, the department continued to develop and improve all its courses. LIB 511, a non-book instructional book course was offered for the first time in the fall semester.

At the graduate level, a Master of Arts in Education with emphasis in library science was available to students with a bachelor's degree. A fifth year non-degree program was also offered in the graduate level for students interested in a State Rank II Certification. Included in the library science curriculum was instructional media studies.

Special Education Gets Modern Facilities

Headed by Dr. Wieste de Hoop, the Department of Special Education and Rehabilitation moved into the modern and fully equipped facilities in the William L. Wallace Building. Included in these facilities were audio and visual classrooms for student teachers participation, testing rooms, and group therapy rooms.

Three bachelor degrees were offered, a B.S. in speech pathology and audiology, B.S. in rehabilitation education and the B.S. for the secondary teacher. Also available was the dual certification in the elementary and special education areas.

In the graduate areas, a Master of Arts in Education with emphasis in special education was available. Certification programs, Rank II and Rank I were additional graduate studies. Rank II was equivalent to the master's degree while the Rank I was studies after completion of the Master's degree.

A statewide convention, Student Council for Exceptional Children was held at Eastern in February and speakers from all over Kentucky presented various modern ideas in special education and rehabilitation.

Teachers Prepared In Numerous Areas

The preparation of teachers and school administrators at all levels were the primary functions of several departments within the College of Education, including educational administration, educational foundations, educational psychology and guidance, elementary education, and secondary and higher education.

Chaired by Dr. Henry G. Martin, the department of Educational Administration offered course work for the graduate student as an elementary and secondary principal or as a supervisor.

The department of Educational Foundations provided instruction in professional subjects which were a basic to a student's preparation as a teacher. Dr. William A. McKenney, chairman of the department, directed and coordinated all the courses offered in the study of past educational systems, education theories.

In the department of Educational Psychology and Guidance directed by Dr. Robert Hayes, a 45% increase in enrollment was noted. With certification or degrees in seven areas, courses involved theories and processes of learning. Courses taught were in educational measurements, and methods of measuring intelligence quotas.

Elementary education, one of the largest departments on campus had advisory and curriculum responsibility of students majoring in elementary education. Overseen by Dr. William A. Morris, courses were available in teaching methods such as elementary school math, and elementary reading. For the first six weeks of each semester, fundamentals of elementary education were taught to prepare the elementary education majors for their student teaching.

Secondary and higher education majors directed by chairman, Dr. Joe Wise, offered courses in all areas of majors such as biology and English. Similar to an elementary education major, secondary and higher education majors were required to take the fundamentals of secondary education. Students were also required to teach at an approved school for their graduation requirements.

School of HPER Sponsors Intramurals

Under the direction of the College of Education, the School of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics, sponsored 12 intercollegiate sports for men and women. Also through this school, the intramural program was administered.

In this school directed by Dr. Ned Warren, new courses were added at the graduate and undergraduate levels. The four academic areas of school and public health, recreation, and park administration, men and women's physical education expanded all of their particular courses and facilities.

In the school and public health department a new course stressing today's environment was added. This course in environmental health developed the ideas of sanitation and recycling. In recreation and park administration, a Master of Science was offered for the first time.

In total, there were available to the undergraduates five baccalaureate degrees.

Health and Recreation Add New Programs

Supervised by Dr. Herman S. Bush, the Department of Health added new courses and new degrees to incorporate the doubled enrollment of the department.

At the undergraduate level an environmental health course was added. It emphasized school health and public health. A Master of Arts in Education with emphasis in health was begun this fall with an enrollment of 15 graduate candidates.

Many conventions were attended by the faculty including the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, and the annual American School Health Association in Chicago.

Mr. James C. McChesney, chairman of the department of Recreation and Park Administration helped the department grow to a flourishing major area on campus. Along with the associative degree and the B.S. degree, a new Master of Science degree was begun in Recreation and Park Administration.

This new graduate degree had approximately 15 candidates. Also in the graduate area, optional emphasis could be obtained by the student in administrative camping, therapeutic recreation, and recreation resource management.

New Minor Begun In Physical Education

Directed by Dr. Fred E. Darling, the Department of Men's Physical Education developed concurrently with the Department of Women's Physical Education a new minor that was to begin next fall. This new minor was especially for elementary education majors and allowed them to get a minor in elementary physical education.

In the areas of emphasis in physical education were available special education, athletic training, recreation and park administration, driver's education or elementary physical education.

Directed by Dr. Ann Uhlir, the women's physical education department continued to grow and prepared women for teaching physical education.

The unique part of the department was the non-class curriculum, which was an integral part of preparing students in a professional area. These non-class curricula included intramurals, intercollegiate sports, officiating, and syncronized swim team.

Graduate School Plans Curriculum Additions

Dr. Elmo E. Moretz, Dean of the Graduate School, supervised more than 1,350 students enrolled for graduate work during 1971-72.

Two graduate programs offered for the first time were Master of Science degrees in recreation and mathematics. Scheduled expansion of the graduate programs in the areas of Master of Music and a Master of Arts in sociology were made upon approval of the Board of Regents.

The separate degree programs offered were: Master of Art in eight fields, Master of Science in eleven areas, Master of Arts in Education in four fields. Professional degrees offered were in music education, public administration, and business administration. There were seven other fields in which specialist degrees could be obtained.

With the graduate program expansion well developed processes of curriculum evaluation and revision were accelerated.

HONORS

Miss Dyehouse Picked For Hall of Fame

Entry into the Hall of Fame symbolizes that a person has achieved the highest standards of scholarship, leadership and service to the University. Miss Kitty B. Dyehouse from Lancaster is the 1972 Hall of Fame honoree.

Miss Dyehouse, an English major, has maintained a perfect 4.0 academic standing. She is listed in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges and was given the Chi Delta Pi award in 1970-71.

She has been secretary of Collegiate Pentacle, president of Cwens, and president of Alpha Phi Gamma. She was also a member of Kappa Delta Pi and served twice as organizations editor for the Progress.

A secret committee named by President Martin selects the honoree from nominations made by each of the four colleges, the Student Association, Omicron Alpha Kappa, and Collegiate Pentacle.

Honor Rollees Set Scholastic Record

The 1972 Milestone Honor Rollees have a combined 3.85 three-year grade standing. Miss Kitty B. Dyehouse, English major, heads the list with a 4.0. She has been active in CWENS, Collegiate Pentacle, and Kappa Delta Pi. Miss Kathryn Rulon, speech pathology major with a 3.86, has belonged to Collegiate Pentacle, Valianettes, ACE, and the Student Council for Exceptional Children. Miss Karen A. Latimer is a home economics major with a 3.8. Her activities include the Home Economics Club, CWENS, Collegiate Pentacle, and Kappa Delta Pi. Billie W. Wade, who has been vice-president of the Accounting Club, is an accounting major with a 3.75 standing. All four are listed in Who's Who.

The Honor Roll recognizes outstanding achievement in each of the four colleges in an area of study and extra-curricular activity. Nominees were chosen by the deans of the respective colleges on the basis of high academic standing and leadership qualities.

Seniors Gain Citations

Each year the Milestone honors seniors for their ability, leadership and achievement in extra-curricular activities. Citations are awarded to students in the areas of community service, athletics, military, student government, music, broadcasting, speech and drama, student publications, and Greek life.

Candidates were nominated by departmental chairmen and organizational sponsors. A secret committee of faculty, administrators and students made the final selection.

Community Service: MARGARET W. BOGLE

Military: STEVE KELSAY, DAN BAUR, and GEORGE SLONE.

Outstanding Greek Man and Woman: DARYL POYNTER and BOB EKLE.

Thirty-Eight Make Who's Who List

Thirty-eight Eastern seniors were chosen to appear in the 1971-72 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Eligibility for Who's Who is based on scholarship, leadership, and service. Nominations were submitted by department chairmen and the Student Association. A faculty committee selected the final nominees.

Honor Societies Play Active Service Roles

Eastern's four scholastic honor societies were active participants in many campus and community service projects.

CWENS, sophomore women's honorary, served as orientation guides for freshmen during fall registration. They also hosted the organization's annual National President Conference at Eastern's Mulebarn.

Collegiate Pentacle, senior women's honorary, is sponsoring the library at Telford Community Center as a continuing project. They have collected over 1,000 volumes and donated money for carpeting.

Food baskets were prepared for needy persons at Thanksgiving and Christmas by Kappa Iota Epsilon, sophomore men's honorary. They also worked with the Jaycees Toys for Tots Drive, and along with CWENS to put on the annual freshman talent show.

Omicron Alpha Kappa, junior and senior men's honorary, sponsored a child in the Appalachian Mountain area. They also conducted a speaking tour to Kentucky high schools to encourage students.

Music Organizations Sponsor Several Concerts

Both the men's and women's music honoraries sponsored a variety of concerts throughout the year. Phi Mu Alpha Sonfonia, the men's group, gave a reception for "Doc" Severinson before the Homecoming concert. Phi Mu Alpha members sponsored a concert featuring "Brass", as well as many small concerts on campus.

Delta Omicron, Eastern's women's music honorary, served as tour guides for high school students showing them around campus on Music Opportunities Day. Members ushered at concerts given by the department of music and presented some of their own open to the public.

Combined, Phi Mu Alpha Sonfonia and Delta Omicron had 50 members working to promote high standards of creativity, performance, education, and research in music. Another goal was to develop a fraternal spirit among music students. Both are international honorary music fraternities.

Dramatics Honorary Provides Fellowship

During the Drama Forensics tournament, held at Eastern for high school seniors, members of Alpha Psi Omega conducted a guide service for participants and guests.

Zeta Phi Cast, Eastern's chapter of the national dramatics honor society had 17 members this past year. Membership requirements were at least a 2.5 scholastic standing with both acting and technical participation in several theatre productions. As a goal the society strove to provide fellowship for those obtaining a high standard of achievement in college theatre.

Members of Alpha Psi Omega, Penny Hasekoester and Don Meade, frequently appear in University Player productions such as "She stoops to Conquer."

Journalists Strive To Meet Pledge

Alpha Phi Gamma, national journalism fraternity, extended membership this year to campus photographers and broadcasting majors. This gave the group a wider scope in specialized fields.

As in the past, members attended the Associated Collegiate Press Convention in Dallas, Texas. Five held seats on the Student Publications Board. As a goal for the year the journalists strove to meet their Meditation Chapel Fund pledge.

Projects included a speaker's brochure of members who would travel to high schools to lead workshops or to give lectures. Delta Iota Chapter sold advertising for the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association Convention program which was held on Eastern's campus.

AKD Hear Talks

Speakers lectured regularly on the complex problems facing our modern society and other facets of sociology to Alpha Kappa Delta. As a national sociology honorary, their purpose was to promote an interest in sociology.

Gamma of Kentucky was new to Eastern being recognized only last spring, yet already has an active membership of 20. Members must maintain at least a 3.0 standing with 10 hours of sociology.

Eastern Opens With Four Straight Wins

To say the least, the 1971 football season was a puzzle to most every avid Eastern fan. Because of the Colonels' returning personnel and their second-place finish in 1970, Coach Roy Kidd's charges were picked to win the Ohio Valley Conference championship.

And at the start of the season, it looked as though Eastern was going to fulfill these predictions. The Colonels opened the 1971 campaign with four straight victories.

But then, in the stretch of the next four games, Eastern was unable to win. These four contests produced three losses and a tie and all but eliminated any EKU hopes of a conference crown.

Just when it seemed the Colonels were going to salvage an otherwise dismal season, having won their next two encounters, arch-rival Morehead ended the year by handing Eastern its fourth loss of the season.

Jimmy Brooks makes his record-breaking run for the most career carries in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Three Colonel Gridders Named All-OVC

Kidd's team finished with a 6-4-1 record overall and 3-4 in the OVC, their worst league mark since the EKU head mentor took over in 1964.

Even though the season turned out to be a very disappointing one for the Colonels, Eastern was not without its individual stars. Three Colonel regulars were recognized as All-OVC players and two were named honorable mention All-Americans.

Jimmy Brooks, a 5-10 senior tailback from Louisville, closed an illustrious Eastern career with 15 Eastern and OVC records to his credit. Brooks was a four-time all-conference tailback and gained honorable mention All-American three seasons.

James Wilson, a tight end and Most Valuable Player for the Colonels, and defensive back James Porter were also named to the conference first-team honor squad. It marked the first time for both players to make the all-conference team. Brooks and junior tackle Wally Chambers received honorable mention All-American.

In the season opener, Eastern scored 20 points in the first half and held on to win 20-12 over Southeastern Louisiana. Big plays, something the Colonels lacked most of the season, provided two Eastern scores. Sophomore fullback Alfred Thompson's 45-yard run and Porter's 68-yard punt return were the highlights of the first victory.

The Colonels then traveled to Ashland for the Shrine Bowl and defeated a stubborn Northern Iowa, 21-7. EKU quarterback Bob Fricker led the way, accounting for two touchdowns, one on a 12-yard pass to Wilson and the other on a seven-yard gallop.

Game No. 3 saw the Colonels come from behind to down the East Tennessee Bucs 28-14. Brooks tied a conference record in this contest by scoring four touchdowns. Eastern's tenacious defense turned the ball over to the offensive unit six times.

Win-Loss-Tie Marks Mid-Season Action

EKU defensive end Mark Shireman's 20-yard interception return for a touchdown sparked Eastern's 14-9 win over the Austin Peay Governors.

The Middle Tennesse Blue Raiders, billed as contenders for the league crown, started the downfall for the Colonels when they raced to a 31-0 lead and managed to hold on for a 31-18 win.

The Colonels bounced back against nationally-ranked Eastern Michigan and tied the physically-tough Hurons, 0-0. Both squads missed two opportunities to put points on the scoreboard. Eastern Michigan was later to become a participant in the NCAA's Pioneer Bowl.

A crowd of 24,500 looked on at EKU's Hanger Field for the 44th renewal of the Eastern-Western game. As usual, the contest was of paramount importance.

EKU Loses To Western, Defense Makes Only Score

The Colonels started the game driving the ball with precision toward the Western end zone. However, Eastern could not dent the goal line in the first quarter and lost its momentum.

Porter's 56-yard run of a blocked field goal attempt proved to be EKU's only score as eventual OVC champion Western won the contest, 16-7.

Eastern was still stinging from the Western defeat when it traveled to Murray. The Racers came up with a couple of big plays, a 38-yard TD pass and a 28-yard pass interception, and handed the Colonels their second straight loss, 17-7.

It was Eastern's turn to capitalize on the big play in the Tennessee Tech game, scoring on a 65-yard end run by Wilson and a 25-yard gallop by Thompson. Eastern defeated the previously once-beaten Eagles, 14-7.

In its last home appearance, Eastern tied the high point production of the season as the Colonels topped Appalachian State, 28-14.

Morehead Eagles Win Over Colonels, Again

For the third successive season, Morehead made the winter seem just a little longer when the Eagles edged the Colonels 10-7 in the season finale.

Statistically, Brooks was the top Colonel rusher with 814 yards, giving him 3,842 for his Eastern career. He scored nine touchdowns, raising his career total to 36 TD's and 220 points, both OVC records.

Larry Kirksey was the top pass receiver for the second straight season with 15 catches for 238 yards.

Chambers once again led defensive statistics with 85 tackles and 64 assists. Other top defensive performers were Richard Thomas, Eddie Huffman, James Croudep, Mike Nicholson and Porter.

Only nine seniors were lost through graduation, giving Coach Kidd another solid base to form a conference contender.

Basketball's Long Season Ends With Happy Note

It was a long season, yet one which eventually was to have a happy ending. Forced into a post-season playoff for the Ohio Valley Conference's NCAA berth, the Colonels of Coach Guy Strong performed late-season heroics necessitated by a mid-season flu bug and five OVC losses by a total of 14 points.

The Colonels had their ups-and-downs early in the season. They whipped national power Southwestern Louisiana and the country's leading scorer, Dwight Lamar, 105-99 in the season opener. Then came losses to eventual NCAA opponent Florida State, 96-83, in the Seminoles' Tallahassee bandbox, and to hotshooting St. Francis, 96-74.

Eastern then seemed to put it all together, winning the prestigious All-College Classic with close come-from-behind wins over Texas Tech, Santa Clara and Oklahoma City University.

Colonels Hit Stride Against WKU, Middle

Staying on the road, the Colonels fell to vengeful Southwestern Louisiana 87-80 and came home to greet sickness and a hand injury to guard Billy Burton in a 102-96 loss to Oral Roberts.

Then came a series of games in which Eastern would flash brilliance, then mediocrity, as virtually all the starters had bouts with the flu. But, Burton's hand healed. EKU won its OVC opener 93-90 on the road at Austin Peay, then lost 72-69 at Murray.

Seemingly beginning to hit their stride, they thrashed Middle Tennessee 85-53 and Western Kentucky 96-78 at home, then held off Tennessee Tech 104-93 at Cookeville to take the lead in the conference race.

Eastern's worst home showing of the year came next when the travel-weary Colonels sputtered and suffered their only home court OVC loss to East Tennessee, 68-66. Then came a 94-93 road loss to Morehead in a game which ended in a flurry of controversy that proved a late-season catalyst for the Colonels.

Road Trip Hurts, But Colonels Bound Back

The OVC race was knotted and confused, a condition it endured until the end, but two straight home wins against Murray, 74-72, and Austin Peay, 104-87, seemingly had the Colonels in the driver's seat with two weeks to go.

Then came a near fatal road trip. Eastern blew an 18-point second half lead to lose to resurgent Western 93-88, then outlasted Middle Tennessee 92-91 in two overtimes, but lost a single overtime game at East Tennessee, 89-86.

Eastern, Western, and Tennessee Tech now stood in a three-way tie for second with five losses each. One game ahead in first place was sophomore-dominated Morehead. The Colonels, pre-season favorites to take it all, had their backs to the wall with a pair of home games remaining.

Tennessee Tech was removed from the list of contenders with a 95-78 performance in which the Colonels seemed to be snapping back. Then, in their most brilliant performance of the year, they swept past Morehead in a fury, 121-91, and threw the final OVC standings into a three-way tie with Eastern, Western, and Morehead as co-champions.

Following a meaningless, but too-lightly regarded game at Virginia Tech, a 103-75 loss in which Coach Strong substituted freely, the Colonels stood in the wings as Morehead eliminated Western in the first game of the OVC playoffs.

Eastern Takes Playoff For NCAA Berth

Then it all boiled down to one night, and as they had all season, George Bryant with 26 points, and Charlie Mitchell with 28, led the Colonels into the NCAA with a 98-86 victory before a deafening, overflow throng of 8,000 in Frankfort's Sports Arena.

It had been an uphill battle for the conference favorite, and, like all comebacks, it had its heroes. Both Mitchell, the team scoring leader with 22.7 points per game, and Bryant, at 21.7, were likely candidates for the OVC's Most Valuable Player Award. Daryl Dunagan and Billy Burton, seniors, like Bryant, had contributed defense, rebounding, and 11.6 and 8.9 points, respectively. Big Dan Argabright, the squad's junior center, got better as the year wore on, finishing as an intimidating rebounder and defensive player while averaging 10.7 points.

And, heading the reserves were sophomore forward Robert Brooks and senior guard Charlie Brunker, who helped pull the team through its bout with the flu and seemingly constant foul trouble.

(For a complete report of the Colonels' play in the OVC playoff and the NCAA Tournament see the Special Report beginning on page 607.)

Colonel Freshmen Post Good 12-7 Season

Eastern's Baby Colonels had an up and down season, with no clear winning or loosing streak until the last four games. Colonel scoring was high throughout the season, breaking 100 four times. The University of Dayton was the only team allowed to break 100 against the Baby Colonels. The Eastern Freshmen wound up their season with a string of four consecutive victories.

The Baby Colonels had a good distribution of points among the team members. Ron Smith led the freshman squad with an average of 21.9. Other Baby Colonels with high scoring averages were Chester Smith, Jim Ratliff, and Howard Blakey, with averages of 18.8, 16.2, and 13.1 respectively.

Eastern's cross country squad was a young team suffering from the loss of All-American Ken Silvious. The team consisted of three sophomores, Tom Findley, Jim Seabree, and Kirk Davis, and three freshmen, Randy Jungkurth, Dan Maloney, and Steve Woolridge.

Throughout the season the team was plagued with injuries. Eastern was never able to enter five healthy runners.

The high-point came in mid-season at the Western Kentucky relays. Each meet saw a different number one runner for Eastern, but the best effort of the year was put forth by Tom Findley, The Harriers ended the season seventh in the Ohio Valley Conference. In the championship race Findley placed 19th in a field of 50 runners.

Eels Capture Tenth Straight State Swimming Crown

Eastern's Eels did it again. They overcame all opposition to win their 10th consecutive Kentucky Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Championship. Eastern took first in 14 of 18 events, and first and second in seven of these events. The Eels accumulated 722 points while UK came second with 611½.

One swimmer, freshman backstroker Tom Javins, qualified to compete in the NCAA Championships held in West Point, New York. Eastern swimmers also won two of three relays and placed second in the other.

The regular dual meet season ended 8-2 for Eastern. The only losses of the season were to Vanderbilt and Indiana State. The Vanderbilt loss came early in the season and was close, 56-57. However, the loss to Indiana State broke into the middle of a long string of Eastern wins. Indiana scored 74 to Eastern's 39.

The Eels bounced back quickly from the Indiana loss to beat a tough team from the University of Cincinnati the following Friday, recovering their winning streak.

Uniting with the Eastern swimming Eels towards their common goal of victory, worked the four diving Eels. Of the foursome, half consisted of freshmen, Gordan Specner and Greg Hook; the two senior members were Bob Sanford and Ken Walters, both completing their fourth year of competition.

Through the year the divers competed in the dual meets whenever facilities were available. Combining the number of events from both boards, the Eastern divers entered 18 contests emerging victorious 13 times, in 8 of the wins taking the 1-2 slots.

At the KISC the divers ran off with the top four places on the 1-meter board and 1-2-3-5 on the 3-meter. Greg Hook, Gordan Spencer, and Ken Walters all qualified for the NCAA Championships.

Colonels Win Second Place In OVC

Starting the season with three straight wins and a double-header split, Eastern's baseball Colonels had some late season trouble on the road. At the OVC playoffs, the young team of only three seniors defeated Western in the first half of the divisional play, going on to win the second place crown, losing to East Tennessee 12-4.

Coached by C. T. "Turkey" Hughes, the team continued to improve throughout the season. Catcher Roger Roberts of Wilmington, Ohio made All-Conference along with right-fielder Larry Kaelin, a newcomer to the team. For the 1971 season, Buzz Ashby, last year's All-Conference second-baseman, was named All-OVC shortstop.

Eastern's Thinclads Hampered By Injuries

Despite injuries, Eastern's track team got off to a good start and kept the pace throughout the season. Senior Ken Silvious led the pack but was beaten by Western's Hector Ortez in the three-mile run when Ortez set a new record of 13:48.0 breaking Silvious' old mark. At the Florida relays, Silvious pulled the fastest collegiate time for the steeplechase.

Another senior, David Stebing proved to be the Colonel's field star capturing second in the discus with a 148 foot 7¼ inch throw and fourth in the shotput in the OVC meet. Stebing held four different school records including discus, indoor shotput, outdoor shotput and hammer throw.

Ron Seiter, a sophomore from Lexington, finished fifth in the pole vault at 14 feet.

Golfers Overcome Low-Rating

Led by Jim Moore, a sophomore from Berea, Eastern's golf Colonels had a successful 12-4 season. Although they finished sixth in the OVC, the final tabulation was just a few strokes off third, showing how close the competition was. Eastern's linksters were aided by such players as Jim Saunders of Indiana and Tom Scott of Richmond, Virginia. Roc Irey, a freshman from Pennsylvania, finished sixth in the OVC individual competition. His score was 220, only 8 strokes from the winning 212.

Coached by Glenn Presnell, the team began the season with a few snags, but improved each match for a winning record.

Young Netters Gain Experience

Fighting a tight schedule, Eastern's tennis team battled to an 11-12 mark against some of the toughest competition ever. Coach Jack Adams relied on the experience of Pat Geron and Greg Stephenson. Both played excellent matches improving each outing. John Bohuslav added extra depth helping the netters' team effort while making a fine individual showing.

It was a year of rebuilding with hopes for 1972. Fortunately the team was young, mostly freshmen and juniors. All members will return for the next season.

Eastern Wrestlers Finish 9-3, Post Streak

The Eastern wrestlers had a good year, finishing with a 9-3 record. The season began with a loss to Miami University. Eastern recovered quickly and with their second match began a winning streak which lasted until the end of the season. Injuries suffered in the match with Anderson contributed to Eastern's defeat in their last two matches. Marvin Alstott was Eastern's only wrestler to finish with a perfect season. Number two for the Colonels was Mac Nickson, who was not defeated, but who did not have a perfect season due to two ties. Chris Reeder, Dick Lowenstine, and Randy Randolph also had good records which contributed to Eastern's success. Bill Froman, whose season record was 8-4, was the only Colonel wrestler to qualify for competition in the NCAA Eastern Regional Tournament which was held in Maryland.

Gymnasts Take First State Championship

Ending the season with an 8-4 record, Eastern's gymnastic team, coached by Ray Jauch, showed much improvement over last year, although the team consisted of fewer gymnasts.

Captain Bill England, best all-round gymnast, collected wins in six events as well as seven first all-round wins. Senior Donnie Paulin was second best on the team. Kim Charleston and Bob Sanders helped add to Eastern's victory with first place wins in their events. First year members Bob Van Natta and Jim Epifino gained valuable experience and should be able to add much to next year's team.

Eastern Marksmen Elevate Scores

Eastern's varsity and ROTC rifle teams posted improved scores over their performances of a year ago, raising average season scores from 1234 to 1277 and from 948 to 982 respectively.

Both teams finished the season with 4-4 dual meet records, all against teams among the nation's top 20 squads, including the top four.

The season was climaxed with the National Rifle Association Intercollegiate Sectional Meet. The ROTC squad finished first in its class with a score of 1019, led by Jeff Norwitz's 275 which was the meet's high. Glenn Haeberlin's 270 was second among all varsity shooters.

The team was coached by Captain Ronald M. Brooke, SFC Carl J. Hamblin and advised by Major Samuel R. Parris.

Girls Win Hockey Runnerup Honors

Eastern's women's field hockey team compiled an 8-1-2 record during the regular season and captured second place in the first State Field Hockey Tournament in Lexington.

Included in the list of the hockey team's victims were the University of Indiana, Transylvania, Berea College, the University of Cincinnati, Centre, and the University of Louisville. Ties came against Centre and the University of Kentucky.

Susie Boone, a sophomore from New Carlisle, Ohio, led the girls in their successful year. Ranked 32nd nationally, Miss Boone has not been beaten in her two seasons at Eastern. Support was furnished by Jean McClure, Kathy Eicher, and Barbara Black. The team was young as Miss McClure and Miss Eicher were freshmen and Miss Black was a sophomore.

Women Win 1st Annual Basketball Tournament

Eastern's Women's Basketball team, coached by Miss Pauls Welch, finished its regular season with a record of 5 wins and 3 losses, and captured the state championship. Six high point players, Sharon Coppock, Hockey Hensley, Melody Middleton, Brenda Ross, Susie Siegler, and Marsha Sterchi, scored the majority of the points during the season.

Eastern acted as host for the first annual Inter Collegiate Basketball Tournament for Women. With wins over Center, 65-22, and Louisville, 86-19, Eastern met Murray in the final round of play. A close, 53-50 win qualified Eastern's women to go to the Region Two play-offs at Appalachian State.

Women Join In Flag Football Competition

Increased participation marked the year for Women's Intramurals, under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Maupin. In the fall semester the girls played tennis, soccer, and volleyball. Women's liberation influenced the addition of a previously all-male sport — flag football. The football games were a cussecc and were very popular with the girls.

Flag football and tennis were not played for winners in terms of trophies. The Jolly Volleys won the volleyball trophy for the second consecutive year, while the girls of OCKY were the winners of the trophy in soccer.

Co-ed Recreation Offered Friday Nights

During the second semester the chief sport of women's intramurals was basketball. Later in the spring the girls competed in softball and tennis. Intramural gymnastics were also held for the girls on Friday mornings.

The women's intramurals department also sponsored a Recreation Night each Friday. These sessions were coed and were designed to offer open recreation. Among the activities available to the couples were badminton, paddleball, table tennis, shuffleboard, and volleyball.

New Intramural Fields Allow More Variety

The office of men's intramurals offered a wide range of activities for the fall semester. The program consisted of 22 different sports, a rise from the 15 offered in 1970-71. This expanded activity led to greater participation by the students.

Four new intramural playing fields were opened for use this fall. The fields were located behind Brockton Trailer Court. The space provided by these fields was one of the factors leading to the increased number of sports available.

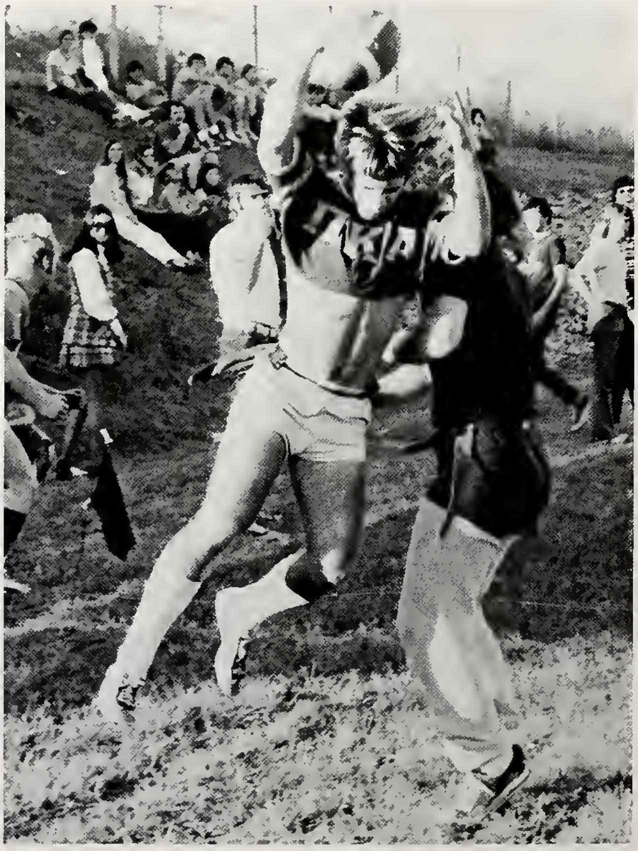
IM's Have Champs In Two Divisions



Most of the sports offered during the fall semester were divided into Greek and an Independent divisions. Greek winners were flag football — Delta Upsilon; Cross Country — Phi Delta Theta; Tug-of-war — Sigma Chi; Swimming — Sigma Chi, and Volleyball — Sigma Chi.

Winners in the Independent Division included: flag football — OKNY; Cross Country — Berry's Bunch, Tug-of-war — PBR; Swimming — Country Fish; and Volleyball — Bearcats.

Among the other activities offered during the semester were tennis, paddleball, table tennis, and handball. Each of these sports held competition in both singles and doubles categories.

Basketball Program Floors 107 Teams

Men's intramurals during the second semester consisted mostly of indoor games. Among them were billiards, paddle tennis, weight-lifting, wrestling and basketball.

With 107 teams participating in the basketball games, the teams were divided into 10 independent and 3 Greek leagues. Among the top independent teams were the Bearcats, String Beans, Berry's Bunch and the GDI's. Top among the Greek leagues were Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Upsilon and Phi Delta Theta. This large number of participants represented an increase of 21 teams over last year's 86.

Thirty-eight men took part in the billiards competition with Joe Mommasig emerging as champion.

Intramural basketball competition attracts crowds of spirited players and spectators.

Wrestling Champs Crowned In Nine Divisions

Wrestling was divided into eight weight classes and an unlimited class. University champions for these divisions were chosen in matches between the winners of the Greek and independent divisions in each class. These champions included: Joe Barner — 167 lbs., Edgar Henry — 177 lbs., Sam Peters — 191 lbs., and Rich Mason — Unlimited.

Weight lifting was divided into four classes. The participants lifted in 3 events; the bench press, squats, and dead lift. The winners were Steve Jackson with a total of 765 lbs., Ken Walters — 920 lbs., Dan Meckstuth — 1210 lbs. Barry Voskamp and Dan Watson tied with a total of 955 lbs., in their weight class.

Senate Establishes Co-op Book Exchange

The Student Association this year has typified the new trend in student activism, that of involvement in student government and working within the established university system. The Student Association, through the Student Senate, this year made various successful attempts at improving student communication by interpreting through action processes and workings of the University.

The Association's efforts triggered several changes in University life, including the elimination of Rat Court, extension of time between classes and class attendance requirements, now a departmental decision.

The Student Association worked in protecting and better defining student's individual rights. Among student services added were a drug abuse program, a student co-op book exchange, a scholarships program and the establishment of draft counseling and pregnancy information bureaus.

Court, Civil Liberties Work for Student Rights

In the fall, fifteen students formed the Eastern Kentucky Civil Liberties Association to promote discussion and concern among Eastern's students about principles of the civil liberties and to assist those students who report individual violations of their own civil liberties. During its first year, the club membership grew from fifteen to fifty members.

Members met weekly to discuss and take necessary action on student problems presented to them. They also provided students with a copy of their rights as citizens of the United States and reacquainted them with the basic Bill of Rights. Eventually, they hope to become affiliated with the Kentucky Civil Liberties Union.

The Student Court, composed of a chief justice, associate justice, and nine justices, heard cases relating to the constitution and by-laws of the student association involving infractions of the University regulations in areas designated by the President of the University. The court's most frequent cases were traffic violations concerning parking on Eastern's campus.

Members of the court were appointed by the chief justice from the previous year.

Anglicans Stuff Socks For Telford Center

Anglicans, Episcopal College Students, established themselves this year as the spiritual guidance group of all Episcopal students at Eastern. Opening the year was a welcome-back dinner sponsored by the Episcopal faculty and the church. Members met weekly throughout the year for a short service and dinner. The club enjoyed several speakers who exhibited to the students how Christianity can benefit them in their daily lives. The Anglicans gave a dinner for the Episcopal faculty at Eastern, made Christmas stockings and distributed them at the Telford Center, and sponsored a dinner at the church for children from the center. During the year, the group also made a number of visits to sing at various nursing homes in the Richmond community.

CSF Combines All Denominations in Fellowship

Glenn Gilbert expresses his views at a weekly CSF Bible discussion.

Christian Student Fellowship is a nondenominational organization which promoted open and active support for the spiritual needs of all Eastern students and encouraged everyone to help fellowship grow and develop on campus.

Throughout the year they held weekly Bible discussions, presented programs at various churches, and heard guest speakers who helped direct the members in their spiritual leadership. The CSF also sponsored special parties on holidays and in December the group caroled at nursing homes in the Richmond area.

Goals for the past year included spreading the gospel to others, furthering the understanding of the New Testament, and bettering Christian students.

BSU, Newmans Seek Unity

In order to help bring a clearer understanding of basic religious unity, several joint services of the Baptist Student Union and Newman Club were held. Both groups went on retreats throughout the year and held Christmas parties for members.

Besides singing tours in the state, the Baptist Student Union participated in both the BSU State Convention and the spring leadership training conference for new officers. Members sponsored a float for Homecoming, prepared Thanksgiving food baskets for the underprivileged, and collected Christmas toys and food for needy families. Each week BSU provided program meetings featuring many interesting speakers. During the week small groups often met for study or discussion and once a month they held a coffeehouse get-together.

Each Sunday following Mass, the Newman Club served coffee and donuts at their clubhouse on Oak Street. Members sold student discount cards with the proceeds furthering the support of local charities. Each week they held Mass at their house followed by a meeting fostering spiritual, intellectual and social interest for Eastern Catholic students and friends. During the fall and spring members often picnicked at Boonesborough.

Wesley Foundation Holds Folk Sings

Members of the Wesley Foundation attempted to show the Christian faith in relation to campus life. For activities the WF offered a Bible and a book-study session, a college worship hour, panels on current problems, and a fellowship hour. An evening meal was served at the center twice-a-month, and the Wesley Singers sang in many neighboring churches throughout Madison County. Aside from the programs at the center, several students were involved in the tutoring program in the community and many worked regularly at the Telford Community Center.

During the year the Foundation sponsored recitals by two professional folk-singing groups as well as a group from Morehead State University, several hayrides, bowling parties, and picnics. Three retreats were held which provided opportunities for the group to get away from the tension of campus life spending a few hours in fellowship, fun, and serious thought.

Members of the Wesley Foundation often meet at night with their campus minister, Gene Strange, to plan their numerous activities.

Alpha Gam's Sponsor Pep Week

Alpha Gamma Delta sold light bulbs this year for their international alturistic project with the proceeds going to the Minimal Brain Disfunction Fund.

Activities this year began with a party in Lexington. Members sold candles throughout Madison County with other Greek organizations. They participated in the Beta Foobtball Tournament and then played in the TKE Basketball Championships. During November, Alpha Gams sponsored their second Pep Week preceding the Tennessee Tech game. Alpha Gamma Delta captured second place in the BOG County Fair and Chi Omega swim meet. The sisters worked at the Panhellenic Spook Party for underprivileged children and gathered canned food for the needy of Richmond with Beta Theta Pi.

Gamma Omicron chapter of the international Alpha Gamma Delta fraternity placed third in scholarship this year. Eastern's chapter was installed October 28, 1968.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Celebrate Founder's Week

Alpha Kappa Alpha sponsored the annual Miss Black Richmond Pageant in December. The competition was open to high school girls who displayed beauty and poise. In January, the sorority celebrated Founder's Week in honor of their national founders. The sisters sponsored a Bid Whiz Tournament in the spring. Their major civic service was tutoring within the Richmond community.

The Zeta Nu chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha received their national charter on April 26, 1971. The fourteen charter members were proud to receive the Scholastic Cup for the spring semester of 1971.

Local Goes Kappa Alpha Theta

Kappa Phi Delta was formally pledged as Delta Upsilon Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta in November 1971 and was formally installed in the spring of 1972.

Kappa Alpha Theta held their second annual Dance Marathon in November in which Greek-sponsored couples competed for a $100 prize. Thetas also held several dances for student entertainment.

Kappa Alpha Theta held a Christmas party for underprivileged Richmond children, an Easter party at the Shriner's Hospital in Lexington, and a clothing drive for needy families in Madison County. Thetas again sent Christmas packages to the First Infantry Division in Viet Nam. The sisters also supplied milk for the Telford Community Center for the entire year.

KD's Initiate Smile Week

The sisters of Kappa Delta sorority held their annual Dating Game in the fall and initiated their first annual Smile Week during the spring semester. They participated in the DU Bike Race, BOG County Fair, Beta Theta Pi Football Tournament, and other Greek activities. KD's contributed to the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Virginia. During the Christmas season, the sisters sold Christmas seals and participated in the all-Greek candle sale.

KA's Help People Of Appalachia

Brothers of Kappa Alpha Order were extremely active this year. Besides the many mixers and annual parties, the fraternity made frequent trips into the mountains in connection with its national Christian Appalachian Project, a non-profit organization dedicated to helping the people of the Appalachian area.

KA's played in all intramural events as well as participating in Homecoming activities, the Dance Marathon, the Goldfish Eating Contest, candle sale, and all other Greek events. They sponsored their annual Egg-Eating Contest and Old South Olympics the week preceding Old South Week.

For the first year, the brothers chose "Daughters of the Crimson Cross." With these "Little Sisters", the fraternity held many picnics, a hayride, a Christmas party, and other activities.

Kappa Alpha's expanded membership this year over last year's number. Each member upheld the Southern tradition of the Order — to build good fraternity brothers, to promote brotherhood, and to build good college men.

Kappa's Hold 'Hot Pants' Dance

Kappa Psi Alpha, in only its second year on Eastern's campus was extremely active. Kappas sponsored a "Hot Pants" dance, "Dog Jam", dance at the Mule Barn, "Scroller" Dance, mixers and smokers for campus entertainment. KSA participated in fraternity-sponsored tournaments, all intramural sports, BOG County Fair, and the Photography Club. Kappas spent many week-ends on surrounding campuses visiting and participating in events sponsored by other national chapters.

Service projects included participation in National Guide Right Program for intercity children. Inter-Fraternity Council Candle Sale and Richmond political projects. KSA was active in the Black Student Union. Kappas visited Richmond churches twice a month and went Christmas Caroling in the community. For Thanksgiving they bought canned goods and a turkey for a Richmond family. Kappa's were proud of their sweetheart Miss Lauretta Harris, who was crowned Miss Black Richmond.

Phi Delt's Introduce Rose Presentation

Members of Phi Delta Theta began the fall semester by introducing their first"Rose Presentation" in which the brothers presented roses to the pledges of each sorority. Moving into the Christmas season the brothers joined Chi Omega sorority to give a party for the underprivileged children of Richmond in conjunction with Telford Community Center. The Phi Delta Santa again this year promoted Christmas spirit by distributing candy canes on the library steps and caroling.

Among other projects during the year the Phi's initiated a get-together of all the chapters of Phi Delta Theta in Kentucky. During early spring the brothers held a spring outing for the underprivileged children of the Richmond area. Spring activity was highlighted by the annual Softball Tournament in which fraternities vie against each other for top honors and a trophy.

Pike's Purchase 1939 Firetruck

Eastern's Pikes purchased a 1939 Ford fire truck this year. The fire truck stands as a national symbol, representing dependability. It proved a useful means of promoting spirit and pride.

The brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha awarded its Most Valuable Player trophy to Eddie Huffman at the Homecoming game. They also sponsored their Goldfish Eating Contest in October, Pie Eating Contest in February, and Greek Bowling Tournament in the spring. The Pikes held a Christmas party for underprivileged children. In November, they performed a civic project at Wilgreen Lake with Chi Omega.

Social activities for the year included their Dream Girl Ball, Parent's Day Banquet and the Hell's Angels Party.

Sigma Chi Wins Volleyball Tourney

Brothers of Sigma Chi participated in various service projects this year. They co-sponsored an East Pakistan Refugee Drive with the Kappa Delta Sorority, they also contributed to the Wallace Village Fund, which is their national service project, and in cooperation with the Inter-Fraternity Council, they participated in the all-Greek Candle sale.

Athletically, Sigma Chi won its fifth straight fraternity title in swimming, along with another first place title in volleyball. They also won the Theta Chi volleyball tournament, winding up the season undefeated. The Sigs also won the tug-of-war contest and claimed the campus title. They participated in and won the BOG County Fair.

In the spring semester, the Sigs planned their second Sigma Chi Derby and more service projects.

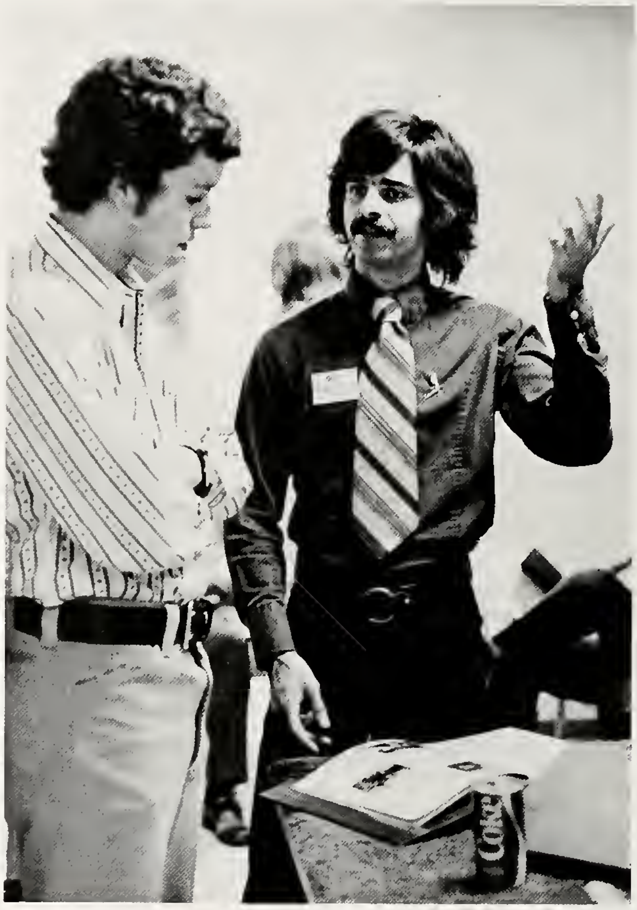
Rush Thresholds Busy Greek Activity Year

Greek activities began with a sudden jolt this year as rush was practically a calendar opener. In the fall upperclassmen and freshmen with at least twelve hours entered the decision-making weeks of open rush. Sororities and fraternities began the frenzied havoc of planning parties. All pledges-to-be found it a time of puzzlement, socializing and friendships. In the crowded rooms rushees came upon extended hands and laughing faces. Many were attracted by the involvement of the Greek system; others discovered it not for them.



Top: Many of the fall and spring rush functions are held in the date lounges and recreation rooms of the dorms — this one in McGregor was given by Phi Delta Theta. DU's, KAΘ's Win DU "Grand Prix Bike Race"

One of the main fall events was the Delta Upsilon Bike Race held September 25. Each campus organization had received a rules and regulations list prior to the day and had gathered their fastest, fittest members. Men's and women's marathon teams consisted of six riders, the Girl's Trike Race called for four pedalers going a quarter mile. Other events were the three-fourths mile speed race, one-mile faculty race and queen crowning at a trophy presentation dance that evening. DU's won the men's marathon and their Dave Bokelman took the speed race to capture the Mens Division. KAΘ sped to win both the marathon and trike events while active Donna McGinnis was crowned queen. BOG sponsored the winners of the faculty race.

All bicycles had to meet these qualifications: 26 inch standard, no gears, 18 teeth on the rear sprocket and 46 forward. Even the tricycles had rules: front wheel no larger than 20 inches, and no motors or chains.

DU's Tip Betas In Sudden Death

During the weekend of October 15th, in the Beta Theta Pi football tournament, Delta Upsilon tied with Betas in final round play with a score of 16-16. Following the intramural flag football rules, it was a sudden death play off. Each team took four carries, the one that penetrated into the opponent's zone furthest won. DU slipped past the Beta defensive to score on their last attempt.

Beta quarterback Tom Smith took Most Valuable Offense honors and DU Ken Idle was the Most Valuable Defensive player of the weekend.

As the weekend of play wore on the girls tired, for the not-so-sports-minded females it was really an experience. They played the same rules as the men following Eastern's intramural flag football rules. In Saturday semi-final play Chi Omega defeated Kappa Delta and Alpha Delta Pi topped Kappa Alpha Theta to qualify for the Sunday championship. Chi Omega emerged victorious and two members of the team took honors: Marsha Sterchi, Most Valuable Defensive player and Debbie "Hokey" Hensley, Most Valuable Offensive.

Being A Greek Is Not Only For Fun

Sunday, November 14th, all Greek organizations gathered forces in the Flame of Hope candle sale sponsored by Madison County Association for Retarded Children. Joining together for a worthy cause was quite an experience for members of Eastern's Greek system. Their work was rewarded with a total tally of two thousand dollars. Half the operating costs for the MCARC must be met by local people. Greeks not only contributed towards this goal but had a day to meet others.

Throughout the year various groups of the system united to hold parties for Richmond children filling the youths' lonely hours with a little activity.

Rex Dunn, president of TKE, with Mrs. Ross of Model Child Development Center and a class member watch Eastern's Band Day half-time program.

Greeks Serve People

KA nationally undertook the Christian Appalachian Project designed to provide jobs for the people of that area. They renovated a barn used in the production of Christmas wreaths providing a "Factory" employing sixty people during the winter months.

As in other football seasons, the brothers of TKE took the children of Mrs. Ross' special education class to the Band Day parade and game. After the football game they spent some time visiting with them. Many of the youth were confined to wheelchairs or in braces usually not getting to see either parades or games.

Panhellenic, I.F.C. Hold "Go-Greek" Activities

The Interfraternity Council sponsored the first all-Greek service project on Eastern's campus with the candle sale November fourteenth. The council sponsored an All-Star game at the close of intramural football season. To inspire Greeks the outstanding fraternity and sorority were awarded trophies at the semesters' close.

Panhellenic sponsored a Spook Party to interest girls in rush and followed this with a signing up booth for spring rush. Two song swaps encouraged Greek unity as well as participation in the candle sale and "Hanging of the Greens". Junior Panhellenic was established with officers from pledge classes. Panhellenic again was co-sponsor of the Miss Eastern Pageant.

I.F.C. and Panhellenic coordinated all Greek activities and sought to gain progress of the system on campus through varied programs uniting existing members and attracting independents and freshmen to rush.

Circle K Aids Child

Activity and service were by-words for the Circle K in 1971-72. An eventful year began when its members served as guides for fall registration. Later the group sponsored a party, jointly with CWENS, at the Shriner's Hospital in Lexington, and a Halloween party for the students in special education at Model Lab School. In addition, Circle K was in charge of the Homecoming decorations for Commonwealth Hall, sold peanuts during the Homecoming game, and gave out 500 candy canes to community children at the Christmas parade.

In the spring, the club members hosted the Kentucky-Tennessee District Convention of Circle K International in Lexington. During the second semester, Circle K supported a foster child and gave a Valentine's party for the patients at the Shriner's Hospital.

Judging from the number of pictures displayed at a smoker, Circle K enjoyed a banner year.

KDT's Visit GI's In Army Hospital

Kappa Delta Tau service sorority kicked off a busy year by co-sponsoring the Powder Puff football game with Sigma Nu. Among their service activities they visited the servicemen in the hospital at Fort Knox, collected money for UNICEF, sold candles for the JFK Foundation for the Mentally Retarded, and visited Pattie A. Clay Hospital and Kenwood Nursing Home.

Members participated in many service projects on campus including working at elections, serving at banquets and working at concession stands of the athletic events. For the last event of the year KDT sponsored the She-Male Contest in April.

Democrats Sponsor Reception For Ford

The Democrats heard numerous guest speakers at their meetings. Among them were Drexell Davis, State Treasurer, Lyman Ginger, State Superintendent of Education, Julian Carroll, Lieutenant Governor, and Wendell Ford, Governor. The members sponsored a reception for Mr. Ford at the Holiday Inn. They also heard former governors, Bert Combs and Ned Breathitt.

The members made notary publics available for students who wished to apply for absentee ballots. They actively worked toward supporting the Democrat ticket, distributing literature and campaign materials.

"E" Club Sells Programs at Games

The Varsity "E" Club was composed of all male athletes, who have lettered in any of the intercollegiate sports at Eastern. The primary function was to sell programs and usher at all home football and basketball games.

The club sponsored an All-Athletic Day in Madison County for children from ages 8-12 years old. Aiding in sponsoring this day were one of the major food chains suppling the meat for lunch and the beverage was provided by one of the soft drink distributors.

Members of the "E" Club who have contributed to the organization and remained in good standing for three years were awarded "E" rings which designated them as leaders in their particular sport.

EKU Cheerleaders 'Get The Spirit'

The cheerleading corps, 13 strong, brought an enthusiastic new look to the Colonels cheering section this year. Learning new techniques at a summer cheerleading camp at Southern Mississippi, the yell leaders effectively brought to Eastern a rhythmic new spirit that swept throughout the student body.

Under the sponsorship of Dr. Oberita Hager, the cheerleaders traveled to some road games in supporting the Colonel football and basketball teams.

Little Colonels Entertain Crowds

The Little Colonels Drill Team began 1971 on a new note as an independent campus organization. Previously, they had operated under the sponsorship of KYMA. Members performed in the Homecoming Parade and with half-time performances at football and basketball games. The Pom-Pom corps consisted of 30 girls led by Captain Connie Tyrell. She was assisted by squad leaders: Tanya Phillips, Marianne Bundy, and Kathy Covelle who led the girls in routines and drills to musical numbers played by Eastern's marching band.

Direction Eastern Spreads Information

During the first year of organization, Direction Eastern worked in the information booth at football games, acted as guides to people who wanted to see the campus, sold shakers for Eastern-Western football game, sponsored a dance in Martin Hall for football players and other athletes, and sold beanies to freshmen.

Direction Eastern's promoted public relations by encouraging people to attend Eastern. They also encouraged people to support athletic events.

Members plan another activity for promotion of school spirit.

Vet's Man Roadblock; Provide Colorguard

Alpha Sigma Upsilon helped in manning the roadblocks for the Cystic Fibrosis drive, and acted as the Homecoming color guard during the parade. Also, on Veterans' Day, President Martin recognized all veterans on campus by having a picnic at the Mule Barn.

Alpha Sigma Upsilon, more commonly called the Veterans Club, was founded by the returning veterans of World War II. Throughout its history, the club has played a varied role in the social and political activities at Eastern. The main purpose of the Veterans Club is to ease the transition from military to collegiate life, and to promote the spirit of fraternity and good fellowship among the ex-servicemen enrolled at Eastern.

Men's Inter-dorm Improves Dorm Life

The Men's Interdorm Council, composed of elected members of individual residence halls, floor counselors, and officers, was founded to help coordinate dorm activities. This year their special activity was providing bumper pool tables for men's residence halls.

The council had monthly meetings to review ideas and to improve living conditions and study habits within residence halls.

Women Sponsor Intramurals

Membership of the Women's Interdormitory Council was composed of individual dormitory house council presidents, social chairmen, and elected representatives. The group coordinated recreational, educational, and intramural activities for women residents.

The council promoted a closer relationship and better understanding between the students and the administration and provided a medium of self government for women residents.

Marching Maroons Highlight Halftimes

Prior to the fall semester, a preschool band camp was held to prepare members of the Eastern's Marching Maroons for the football season. During the year, the band highlighted half-time by performing at all home football and basketball games. They traveled to Ashland to march in the Shriner's parade and to play during half-time at the Shrine Bowl Game. They also performed in the Homecoming Parade and Inaugural Parade in Frankfort.

The Marching Band consisted of 140 brass and woodwind members, 20 percussionists, 10 majorettes, two featured twirlers, 16 flag squad members, and a drum major.

Dance Theatre Attends Workshop

Eastern's Dance Theatre offered a technique class open to all University students to aid the development of and participation in modern dance. During the year, the members performed a Halloween Concert in the ravine and attended a workshop in Lexington taught by a member of the Paul Taylor Dancers. They also taped the Beethoven Hallelujah Chorus for Kentucky Educational Television.

The dancers held a concert, "Dance Has Many Faces," and a rummage sale in April raised funds. Each year the Dance Theatre has sent a representative to the University of Cincinnati for special instructions of techniques in modern dance.

Symphonic Band Performs Concert

The Symphonic Band, composed of a select group of woodwind, brass, and percussion instrumentalists met during spring semester three times weekly for one hour. The group performed two concerts in March and April. They also traveled to Central and Northern Kentucky to perform concerts during a two-day tour — playing at such places as Covington, Newport, and Cynthiana.

Emphasis was placed upon the performance of the best in new literature for the modern wind band as well as the standard band repertoire. Works which are representative of the band include the Giannini, "Symphony #3 for band", "La Fiesta Mexicana", and Mennin's "Canzona".

University Ensemble Tours South

University Ensemble, now in its fourth year of service, presented several concerts this year. The group made a tour of the southern states last spring. The itinerary included Louisville, Nashville, Atlanta, and Daytona Beach, during a five-day period. The concerts performed while on tour were well-received.

The Ensemble tried to make others happy through their repertoire of gospel and spiritual music, integrated into a fresh, intimate and contemporary setting without jeopardizing the depth and natural beauty of the music of the Negro culture. The Ensemble, which was organized in 1967, carried the message of God in their songs.

The 1972 production season of the University Department of Drama was a continuation of the critical and financial success begun with Dracula last year. This season's repertoire included two summer shows, The Rivalry and Star-Spangled Girl, She Stoops to Conquer, The Glass Menagerie, Canterbury Tales, Two Pails of Water, and You're a Good Man Charlie Brown.

Along with the innovative season of dramatic productions came a new beginning for the drama department, as well as the close of an era. Ground was broken during this academic year for a new fine arts building, to open in 1974, while the Pearl Buchanan Theatre was closed for remodeling. It is to reopen in the spring of 1973. During the '72 season, some of the shows were staged in the Edwards Auditorium of Model Lab School.

Catalina Holds Water Show

Members of the Catalina Club held their annual Water Show in April and participated in synchronized swimming clinics, symposiums and workshops during the year. As a result of considerable practice, members were able to execute skilled swimming strokes, sculling skills and basic sychronized stunts.

The club aimed to provide experiences involving aquatic skills, rhythm, and design with opportunities for members to develop leadership, fellowship, cooperation, and initiative.

ROTC Travels To Fort Knox

Eastern's Military Science Cadets were active throughout the year. During the fall semester activity was chiefly business, beginning in October with a trip to Ft. Knox where the cadets achieved their qualification with the M-14 rifle. Military Day offered an opportunity for the student body to view the assembled corps. Also during the fall semester, they held a field training exercise at the Blue Grass Depot for the junior and senior cadets.

During second semester, the corps participated in several social events, including the Military Ball. The corps also sponsored a training exercise for the freshman cadets in field maneuvers.

Raiders Train In Field Exercises

An active year for the Eastern Counter-Guerilla Raider Company began during fall registration when its members served as guides. In October the Company traveled to Fort Eustus, North Carolina, to take part in an amphibious landing operation.

Throughout the year the Company participated in various field training exercises, including one with the 100th Reserve Division at Blue Grass Depot. These field problem drills were designed to teach scouting, patrolling, land navigation, and unarmed combat. The Raiders also took part in an orienteering exercise with companies from other universities. On this exercise the Raiders improved their map skills.

Military Police Aid In Traffic Control

Through the aid of the Military Police Company, the University often received much needed help. One of the major areas in which the MP's provided valuable assistance was that of traffic control. The MP's directed traffic for such University events as Registration, Band Day, and Homecoming.

Eastern's Military Police Company consisted of 25 members, all of whom were members of the ROTC program. Members were required to maintain a 2.2 average. The Company was organized in November of 1967 and was the first unit of its kind in the United States.

The Company often took part in overnight field training exercises. In addition, the members worked to achieve quality marksmanship.

PR's Feature Drill Squads

Pershing Rifle Company R-1 worked registration both semesters, sold flowers at the Homecoming game, and demonstrated the exhibition squad at several different high schools throughout the year. The exhibition squad also performed at Eastern's Homecoming parade and at the Veteran's Day parade in Glasgow.

The PR's participated in several drill meets at Ohio State, University of Cincinatti, and Penn State. The company has the privilege of serving as 2nd Battallion headquarters.

The Valianettes, coed affiliates of the Pershing Rifles, drilled during halftime of the Eastern-East Tennessee game and added spirit throughout the year to the PR's.

Sponsor Selection Changes for '71

Selection of sponsors for the ROTC units was conducted differently from preceding years. Out of 200 applications from Eastern coeds, the cadets held an election to choose the girls to represent the brigades and companies.

This year the sponsors, headed by the 1971-72 Queen Athena, Barbara Harrison Howard, drilled at game half times and at the President's Review. The group met every third Thursday with speakers from the ROTC department who answered questions dealing with military life.

AUSA Collects Food for Needy

The Association of the United States Army, a member of the Eastern Kentucky University ROTC Brigade, attended the National AUSA Convention in Washington, D.C. October 9-13.

Established on Eastern's campus to improve cadet training and to be of service both to the University and the Richmond community, AUSA conducted its annual collection of food for needy families at Christmas. Also included in its activities was the annual spring Military Ball, at which time the newly elected Queen Athena was introduced.

Biology Club 'Gives' Bike Away

In the fall, the Biology Club sponsored a picnic at Adam's Cave and an outing at Levi Jackson State Park in London. Members enjoyed a Christmas party and a spring picnic at Fort Boonesborough.

As an organization, the club served during the Audubon films, Conservation Fair, Kentucky Academy of Sciences Fair, and Earth Day.

During January and February, the Biology Club held a fund-raising project by selling pieces of "50-cent" bubble gum and chances to win a bicycle.

Chemistry Club Hosts National Academy

In November, the Chemistry Club members hosted the National Academy of Science at which they served refreshments and provided various aids to the speakers. During their meetings, the club provided speakers on areas related to chemistry. Speakers included Dr. Vernon Stubblefield on criminology and Dr. William H. Watkins, Associate Professor of Psychology.

WRA Hosts Active Year

An active year sparked the members of the Women's Recreation Association. The club, which encourages students to become involved in physical and recreational activities, sponsored two camping trips to Camp Otonka, a wiener-roast at the Mule Barn, a swimming party at Weaver Pool, and a senior picnic at Boonesborough. Besides the social events, year-round athletic activities and sporting competition encouraged teamwork and a diversion from classes.

Caduceus Club Assists Blood Drive

The Caduceus Club raised money for the Kidney Foundation and assisted with the Red Cross bloodmobiles on campus. Members also took trips to the University of Louisville Medical School and Pharmaceutical company.

As a year opener, the club met for a picnic and football game. To complete the year, they held their spring banquet.

The Caduceus Club was organized to further knowledge and understanding of students in the medical sciences and health fields.

Ag Club Spans Three Interest Areas

Eastern's Agriculture Club was divided into three interest groups — ornamental horticulture, dairy, and farm mechanization. Each of these groups had their own meetings. The horticulture interest group went camping this fall and worked on a trail on Pine Mountain. Farm mechanization took field trips to different machinery companies to study new equipment and had an open house for high school seniors in November taking them to the Eastern vs. Appalachian football game. Members of the faction held several meetings with guest speakers.

As a unit, the Agriculture Club started the year off with an ice cream social to welcome freshmen to Eastern. They sponsored a tractor drive in October and a trip to the Farm Machinery Show in Louisville.

French Club Holds Dinner, Play

During its second year of existence on Eastern's campus, Le Cercle Francais sponsored a variety of activities. Members prepared and served a French dinner, staged a French play, viewed French documentary films, heard Dr. Charron from the University of Kentucky, and planned an excursion which included a French dinner and play.

With membership open to all French majors and minors, the club aimed to spread French culture through use of the French language, educational opportunities, and the high standards of its members.

MENC Co-Hosts State Convention

Members of the Music Educators National Conference started the year by decorating the Foster Building for Homecoming and by helping with Music Opportunity Days at Eastern. They were co-host with the University of Kentucky at the MENC student convention and luncheon in Lexington. In March they planned to send student delegates from Eastern to the National Convention in Atlanta, Georgia. Also many members served as student workers at the State Solo and Ensemble Contest held at Eastern in March.

Home Ec Club Holds Picnic

Opening the year for the Home Economics Club was a picnic at the Irvine-McDowell Park. At the meeting they heard international students talk on family life of their respective countries, as well as career talks. Dr. Knapp talked on "Family Faces Change."

For special activities the Home Economics Club built a homecoming float with the help of the industrial education department. Early in the spring they traveled to the state convention in Louisville. Members participated in the Kentucky Home Economic Association workshop held at Western Kentucky University.

Dr. Knapp holds an informal talk with home economics students on family development.

Active Year Sparks Accounting, Nutrition Clubs

In order to learn more about the accounting profession, Eastern's Accounting Club planned field trips to accounting firms and other businesses. Guest speakers attended several of the monthly meetings to discuss topics of interest to the club members. Tutoring sessions were set up for freshmen who were having problems understanding their accounting courses.

In October, the Foods and Nutrition Club hosted the Fall Kentucky Dietetics Association Convention for 1971. To welcome freshmen students, the Home Economics department held a dessert party.

For its programs the group heard several speakers in the field of dietetics and related fields and a delegate from the state dairy council.

Law Enforcement Revises Constitution

The Association of Law Enforcement sponsored a banquet in November at which Captain Robert Earhart, a Michigan State Policeman spoke. The members spent their time revising their constitution by-laws. They also planned to set up a room in the Begley building for law enforcement students in-between classes.

The association attempts to provide service activities in the interest of law enforcement and public safety. They also encourage the public to support professional education and training for law enforcement personnel.

Student Work Chosen for Aurora Publication

Aurora, Eastern's student literary publication, was placed on sale late in the spring after a year full of selecting the best of hundreds of prose and poetry works submitted for consideration.

Final selections were made by the editors, although they worked closely with English faculty who offered constructive criticisms for improving each piece.

Aurora is published with the purpose of giving talented students the experience of writing for publication and provide a record of student literary endeavor.

Eastern Progress Marks 50th Anniversary

Spurred by its 1970-71 All-American ranking, the EASTERN PROGRESS marked its 50th anniversary early in the second semester. Highlights of the year included the PROGRESS' hosting of the annual Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association meeting, a series on drug abuse on the college campus, and coverage of the proceedings in the Kentucky legislature.

Mike Park, a three-year veteran as business manager, assumed the duties of editor-in-chief while his one-time assistant, Jim Ross, took over as business manager. And, last year's sports editor, Jack Frost, became the new managing editor.

Jack Frost, managing editor, is responsible for the news and feature content of the PROGRESS, as well as general management of the paper.

PROGRESS STAFF: Marty Patrick, Delma Francis, Jill Barthen, Hubert Hagan, Fawn Conley, Kathy May, Lisa Collins and Bonnie Gray.

News Editor, Jim House edits all news copy for the PROGRESS.

Jim Kurk covers an Eastern basketball game from the courtside press table as part of his job as PROGRESS sports editor.

Betsey Bell, John Payne, and Marla Sample have a good laugh over one of John's cornball jokes before settling down to work.

ASTE

1972 Milestone Covers Change, Involvement

Months of waiting, wondering and hoping finally ended second semester as new facilities opened. Almost as quickly as the doors were unlocked, students swarmed inside; the flow never letting up. It was truly the Year of the Building Boon.

Our MILESTONE editors and staff have shown the months of looking at the pieces falling into shape and the whirl of activity upon their completion. Students found a new direction to University living towards other people, involved and interested.

In the 616 pages of the 1972 MILESTONE a glimpse of this atmosphere has been captured for each student to identify his special rememberances. This year's book has more color than preceding MILESTONES to catch activities and campus as realistically as possible.

New Crew Meets University Demand

Capturing events of the year not only for the MILESTONE and Eastern Progress but also the Office of Public Affairs, the photographic staff was kept at a constant pace racing to meet each appointment. Larry Bailey, a former student staff member, headed the department as University Photographer adjusting to his new role while training and guiding an almost totally fresh crew. Mr. Bailey fought mechanical break-downs in the developing room most of the year as well as late arriving supply orders. Despite the pressures of deadlines and other troubles, the photographers completed their work turning out masses of prints making the 1972 MILESTONE possible.

THE CLASSES OF 1972

Cut-Rate Theatre Trips For Seniors

For the second consecutive year the Class of 1972 elected Art Cassill, Business Education major from Carlisle, Ohio, president. Under his leadership the class was twice given the opportunity for a night at the Winchester Barn-Dinner Theatre at less than half-price. As a special project, the class contributed money toward filling Christmas baskets for local families in conjunction with Richmond firemen.

As in the past, the class gave to the Meditation Chapel Fund. At an early fall meeting the constitution was amended in a fashion that abolished the document.

Few seniors began the year with the usual air of senior slump, by second semester even this little group looked forward to the immediate future. Many kept Eastern's placement office busy with interviews reaching any imaginable field. The graduate office helped interested seniors apply for entrance and guided undecided applicants to beneficial programs of study.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS. Patty Taylor, Treasurer; Connie Palsgrove, Secretary; Judy Wessel, Vice-President; Art Cassill, President.

Sophomores Meet New Responsibilities

The Class of '74 returned to campus as more experienced students. The beanies were being worn by a new Freshman class, and the Sophomores took their place alongside the upperclassmen. Though more experienced, they still found many new discoveries awaiting them in the three years ahead.

Freshmen Adjust To Campus Life

For the first time, a large-scale Freshman Orientation Week was held in the summer. A sizable portion of the class of '75 got a head start on class scheduling, meeting with advisors, and registration. However, puzzled faces under maroon and white beanies easily distinguished the freshmen when the semester officially began in August.

First experiences, dorm living and new friends broadened their horizons.

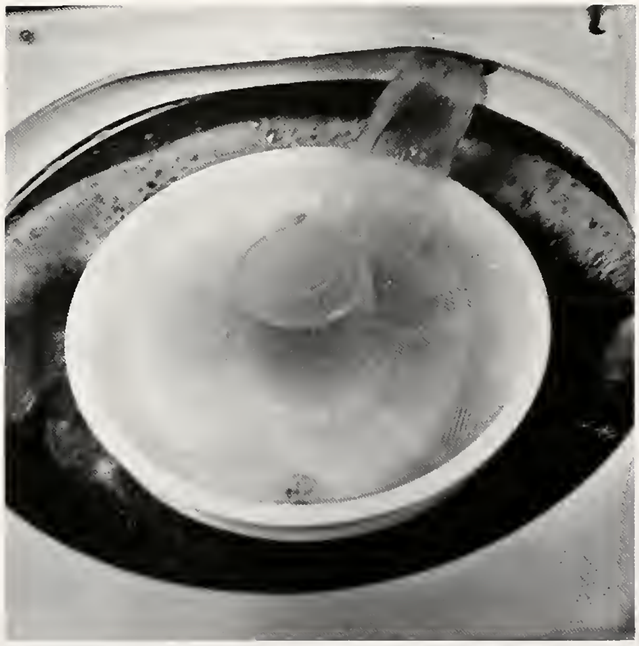
Many students take time out during the day or night to give their minds a rest in the new game room and recreational area in the University Center.



Laundry day, which includes sheets and personal items, is an absolute must for Eastern students; however, some students forget to put just a cup of detergent in their wash.

Sunset and evening star,
   And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
   When I put out to sea,
For tho' from our bourne of Time and Place
   The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
   When I have crost the bar.

Editor's Note

Eastern will long remember 1972 as a year of change, building and a new involvement. With the new atmosphere set by the activity offered within the new plaza, students took a new outlook towards campus living. Seldom could a time be found with the pool room vacant or bowling lanes silent. Reading, T.V., leisure, and meeting rooms were in constant use. Endless lines stretched from the new dining facilities and on the spot laundry service desk. The 1972 MILESTONE has captured the final moments of waiting before the primary burst of excitement following the January opening of the Center. University students this year will forever look back and recall their first walk through the University Center and Chapel — not to forget that fall class in a not quite-completed William L. Wallace Building.

What is a book without people? Each and every student added his own personal spot to the year's record. Many unknowingly contributed to photos capturing a look or movement telling a story in itself on record forever. Those whose conscious efforts poured into the book are to be especially thanked. Seldom does a managing editor as Bill Sawyer exist, always ready to help in any capacity. One to be trusted not only as a journalist but as a friend. Section editors cannot be forgotten constantly attempting to follow an editor's often spacy directions. When I began student teaching second semester, the dependability of these section editors and the staff to function as a unit quickly became evident. Without Vice President Don Feltner, advisor and Doug Whitlock of news and publications to work behind the scenes, deadlines could not have been met. They were there throughout the year whenever that one last word would not come to mind, or a picture refused to crop.

Larry Bailey, university photographer, and his student assistants: Jim Shepherd, Don Wallbaum, Dan Quigg, Marianne Rose, Stephen Louis, and Bob Humphries made this book a reality. Special thanks is owed Doug Whitlock and Schley Cox for pictures. Many thank-yous go to Ken Greene of the Register for selected sports photos and to Mr. Bill Stoess (Bongo) of Delmar Printing for certain Greek group and activity shots. Thanks go to Billy Davis III for the campus aerial on pages 20-21 and to the Courier-Journal for contributions to the Special Report on pages 607-615.

From Osborne Photographic Laboratories, Inc. came the portraits and many group shots. Thanks are extended Osborne people, John Mullaney, Steve May, Bob Ott and Betty Megerle for their services. At the Delmar Printing Company, thanks reach Bob Anderson, Sybil Parrish, Emma Thomas, Ralph Van Dyke, Ron Wempe, and Wayne Wolfe. And an extra special thank you is offered to Harrell Brooks for his creative assistance helping to make this the 1972 MILESTONE.

Spirited Colonels Climax Year With Post-Season Heroics

"We've Got the Spirit! Now, you get the Spirit!"

This chant rang loud off the playing floors of Alumni Coliseum, Frankford Sports Arena and Stokely Athletic Center as the volatile, never-say-die Colonels generated more enthusiasm than most memories recall in a pulsating season appropriately labeled "Excitement '71-71."

A story-book season that only a few bounces of the basketball prevented from becoming an heroic epic was climaxed by a pair of post-season games that brought an up-and-down year to a heart-pounding conclusion.

Left: Eastern fans "get the spirit" as they watch the Colonels in post-season play. Below: Charlie Mitchell soars over Morehead's Ron Nicholson for a fastbreak basket.

Right: The Colonels warm up for their NCAA tussle with Florida State as the Stokely Athletic Center scoreboard is lowered to change the teams' names following the Marquette-Ohio University game. Above: The Colonels' cheerleaders whip up enthusiasm among the some 2,000 EKU fans in Knoxville just before the opening tip.

Playoff Victory Earns NCAA Tourney Berth

After battling from second place to a tie for first in the Ohio Valley Conference, the Colonels faced Morehead, victor over Western in the OVC playoff's first game, for the right to represent the conference in NCAA play. Retaining the zip that pushed them past the Eagles 121-91 in the last regular season OVC game, Eastern whipped Morehead for the second time in five nights by a 98-86 margin.

The Colonels came home from Frankfort that night feeling like more than co-champions, and carrying the tickets to play Florida State three days later at Knoxville.

The Seminoles had topped the Colonels by 13 earlier at Tallahassee, and the Colonels felt a neutral court was all they needed.

Billy Burton's layup against Ron King (above) and Dan Argabright's shot over Lawrence McCray's outstretched hand (top left) were typical of the play that pushed the Colonels to a 27-14 lead before the duo was benched with first-half foul trouble.

EKU's Early Momentum Stalled By Fouls

Fan support, which had seen more than 3,000 tickets to the playoff battle at Frankfort sold in a single afternoon, continued and some 2,000 Colonel rooters followed the squad to Knoxville.

Eastern started the battle with the same fervor that had carried the squad past Morehead, zipping to an early 27-14 lead. Then foul trouble benched Billy Burton and Dan Argabright and EKU's momentum followed them to the sidelines.

Florida State inched back to tie the score at 34 and held a 50-42 edge at the half. The Seminoles built their advantage to 11 at 59-48 before Eastern, sparked by Charlie Mitchell and Daryl Dunagan, slowly whittled away at the margin.

Colonels Fall 83-81 To NCAA Runners-Up

The Colonels tied it at 77 on Mitchell's layup, following a Dunagan rebound, and took the lead on Billy Burton's fielder at 79-77. A couple of blocked EKU shots helped put FSU back on top 82-79, before Argabright's layup put Eastern within one and set the stage for the frantic last minute.

With 36 seconds left, Burton fouled out and sent Ron King to the line. The Seminole ace missed the shot, Eastern rebounded and headed downcourt. With 20 seconds to go, Daryl Dunagan was fouled in the act of shooting. His first free throw rimmed around, dipped in and then came out. His second bounced off the front of the rim. King's foul shot with six seconds left set the final score at 83-81.

The Colonels were out of it and watched the Seminoles, whom they came so close to beating, sweep past Minnesota, Kentucky, and North Carolina into the national championship game with UCLA where they fell by only five points.

The Colonels finished the year at 15-11, leaving many wondering how this team could have lost nearly a dozen games. Post season honors placed George Bryant and Charlie Mitchell as unanimous choices on the All-OVC team. Billy Burton received honorable mention recognition. And, for Guy Strong, who had worked the Colonels unrelentingly toward the top during his five years at the EKU helm, came deserved recognition as the Ohio Valley Conference Coach-of-the-Year.
